Hurley Taxpayers Approve Bonds for New Fire Building

Three-to-One Vote Carries Issue for $22,000 and Assures Place for Training

Taxpayers of Hurley Fire District last night by a three-to-one vote approved a $22,000 bond issue for a new fire house to be erected in the hamlet.

A total of 161 ballots was cast, with 120 in favor and 41 opposed. Voting was from 7 to 10 p. m. in the town hall.

The bond resolution was adopted by the board of fire commissioners April 16 and authorizes the construction and equipment of a fire house for the housing of fire apparatus of the district. In addition preliminary plans on view at the polls call for the construction of a suitable meeting room and training space.

Present Quarters Cramped

Equipment at present is housed in a small concrete building only large enough for the pumper and auxiliary water truck. It is expected that the new building will be constructed on the property owned at present by the fire district. This parcel is the site of the former pencil factory, which burned about nine years ago.

In charge of the voting last night were James Cunniff, chairman of the election; Jay Molyneaux, Isaac Rosa, Paul Weber and Winfred Snyder.

Fire district commissioners are Edmund Czerwinski, chairman; Stanley J. Matthews, secretary; Lyman T. Schoonmaker, Andrew Lehtonen and Richard O. Gruver. LeRoy Vogt is treasurer.

Appreciation and Praise

Czerwinski today asked The Freeman to extend the appreciation of the fire board and the fire company for the excellent supporting vote given to the proposition.

The Hurley Fire Company has been considered one of the most active county volunteer units. Another commissioner said today, "It is gratifying at last to be able to offer this outstanding company a place in which to train and meet, and a headquarters of its own in which it can play host to monthly meetings of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. Had this project been defeated it would have marked a decline in morale of our valuable volunteer organization.

Aided Flood Victims

"One of the most recent services rendered in Hurley was to the flood-stricken residential area near the Esopus Creek in March. The volunteers donated their time for many days to assisting the victims in the restoration of their properties. During the flood sev-

Three Class Rooms Suffer Chief Loss in Blaze; Cause Is Noted

Fire of apparent incendiary origin badly damaged School No. 5, Wynkoop Place, early this morning.

Three of the 16 class rooms were directly damaged by what Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said was an extremely hot fire and damage spread to the corridors, basement rooms and other parts of the building. The blaze was largely confined to the front of the structure.

Local police began an investigation this morning of the fire, which Chief Murphy said, appears to have started in three separate parts of the building, and they were expected to be assisted later today by John E. Stuerwald, special agent for the arson department of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, who was notified at Schenectady.

Living Cost Protest Brings Serious Wounds to Five

Pamplona, Spain, May 9 (AP)—Police fired on a crowd of strikers demonstrating today against the high cost of living. Five were seriously wounded.

Fifty of the workers, taking part in a general strike which has paralyzed this industrial city, were arrested as "instigators" of the stoppage, which began yesterday.

Civil Governor Luis Valera Bermejo gave the strikers an ultimatum to return to their jobs by 2 p. m. this afternoon or face "grave sanctions." The workers defied the ultimatum, showing up in front of the factories but remaining outside discussing last night's skirmish with police during a previous demonstration.

Today's fighting began when strikers went to a plant where workers wanted to return to their jobs, and forced them to stay out.

A short time later, the strikers tried to march up the Plaza Del Castillo to the civil governor's palace, to renew their protests against the high cost of living.

Police opened fire. After the volley, five persons lay still on the ground. Nearly 50 others suffered minor injuries after police wielded clubs among the demonstrators.

The strike remained solid, with no indication that it would end before tomorrow.

All stores and cafes remained closed and transport services halted. No disorders were reported during the first part of this morning.

Club swinging police and guardsmen firing into the air halted the strike demonstration here last night.

State Tells Hurley Fire Board Injury Insurance Is Out

Fire Equipment, Firemen, Other Town Workers Not Protected Eight Days

What was described today by an official of the Hurley Fire District as "consternation and cold sweat" was experienced by them and members of the town board yesterday when it was learned that the fire and town boards had been without workmen's compensation coverage and equipment liability insurance for a period of eight days.

First word of this condition came yesterday to the fire commissioners in a letter from the State Workmen's Compensation Board. The letter told of the liquidation of the Preferred Accident Insurance Company of New York by Supreme Court order April 30.

As a result, it developed that members of the Hurley Fire Company, as well as regularly employed township employes, have been "officially" without compensation coverage. In addition, the equipment of the Hurley Fire District, also insured by the same company, has been without coverage it was reported. During that period the fire company answered one night alarm at the Henry Paul farm. There was no damage to equipment or injury to the firemen on that occasion.

No Knowledge or Consent

If action was taken to cover the town board or the fire board on the matter of policies, it was done without the consent or knowledge either of the fire commissioners or the town board, it was said today. No communication from the company or its agents had been received by the fire board at the time this story was written, it was reported on reliable authority.

The fire commissioners of the fire district carry accident and liability policies on the equipment of the company and the compensation on volunteer firemen was included in the policy carried by the town board on the town employes. The coverage was written by Benson A. Krom, Hurley, agent of the firm of Krom & Canavan.

Relyea Takes Steps

When the matter was discovered yesterday the fire commissioners and Supervisor Charles Relyea of the town of Hurley took immediate steps to see that coverage was placed.

The matter was taken up with Agent Krom and Relyea was told that a letter was to go out to all policy holders, who had been insured in the defunct company, notifying them of the liquidation

GOP Wants More Clarity Of Marshall

'Clearer Answer' to Be Sought from Defense Chief on Korean War Ending

Is Not Satisfied

No Reply Yet on Ways to Bring Fighting to Close, He Says

Washington, May 9 (AP)—Senator Knowland (R.-Calif.) said today Republicans will demand a "clearer answer" from Secretary of Defense Marshall on how the administration expects to end the Korean war.

Marshall said yesterday that breaking the morale of the Communist armies and destroying their best forces holds "the best probability" of reaching a satisfactory basis to talk peace.

With a partisan split widening over the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Democrats defended President Truman's limited Korean war policy, asserting similar tactics had defeated the Communists in Greece and in the Berlin blockade. Those were two points Marshall made.

Senator Knowland, obviously voicing views held by others of his party colleagues, told a reporter he isn't satisfied with Marshall's explanation of how the Korean fighting can be brought to a successful close.

Basic Query Unanswered

"That basic question has not been answered yet by General Marshall," Knowland said.

Senator Benton (D.-Conn.) told the Senate yesterday the President's "steadfast" policy "was responsible for the greatest defeat communism has suffered—the loss of Yugoslavia." This came about, Benton said, because of the success of the program of aiding Greece.

Senator Long (D.-La.), an Armed Services member, said it hasn't been demonstrated to him that the present policy of taking a heavy toll of Red Chinese in Korea—without risking air attacks on Manchuria—won't work.

He cited Marshall's testimony yesterday that there had been one school of thought that Americans ought to shoot their way through the Russian blockade of Berlin. Instead, Marshall reminded senators that the airlift, though costly, didn't involve any shooting and did break the blockade.

Senator Bridges (R.-N.H.) said Marshall is going to be called upon to explain at much more

No One Appears To Discuss Budget

A scheduled public hearing on the 1951-52 school budget as required by law was held last evening at 8 o'clock at the high school.

Present were all members of the board except Trustees Kalish and Darling. The meeting was called at the scheduled hour and after remaining in session for over half an hour the meeting was adjourned when no one showed up to discuss the budget. The only persons attending the public hearing were board members and the press.

Final action on adoption of the budget will be taken at the next meeting of the board.

Budget Published

The complete budget was published at the time the board proposed its tentative figures. Under the budget proposed the tax rate will be $19.40 compared to a rate of $15.28 for the current year. The total cost of education in the city will be $1,631,897.06 and it will be necessary to raise by direct taxation the sum of $616,263.38.

Ten years ago the tax rate was $9.66 when the 1941-42 budget totaled, for all educational purposes, $660,609.49 and there was raised by general tax levy the sum of $223,023.83.

Increased costs of all commodities during the past 10 years has been responsible for annual increases which gradually brought the tax rate up from $9.66 to the present $19.40. One of the big factors in the increased budget however has been the increased salary schedule of teachers and board employes over the past few years.

Allied Planes Hit Reds' Airfield on Manchurian Line

Flames, Smoke Hid Exact Results of Raid by UN Craft

Tokyo, May 9 (AP)—More than 300 allied planes smashed a Red air field on the Korea-Manchuria border today to prevent an expected Communist aerial offensive.

It wase the biggest air raid of the war. But first official reports didn't look like much. The Fifth Air Force said two Red planes were damaged in the air, two were destroyed and one was damaged on the ground.

Precisely what happened in the thundering raid was screened by flames and smoke. Returning pilots said 10 square miles were blanketed by smoke and flames.

The target was Sinuiju Air Field where 70 to 100 Red planes had been spotted on the ground.

By Jets, Bombers

The attack was made by 312 jets and fighter-bombers. They came from every United Nations air field in Korea. For half an hour early Wednesday afternoon they blasted and burned the air field in northwestern Korea.

Eighty Russian type jet fighters were parked on an air field at Antung, Manchuria across the Yalu river from Sinuiju.

Fifty rose. But. Lt. Gen. Earle E. Partridge, Fifth Air Force commander, said only 13 crossed the Yalu. A few air fights flared.

However, Lt. Robert Dixon, Newton, Iowa, said the Red jets were out in strength.

Calls It 'Massacre'

"It's a massacre," he said, "and they are being massacred, not us."

Field dispatches said one Russian type MIG-15 was probably shot down and another damaged. One U. S. plane was damaged.

The big blow at Sinuiju followed front line reports that Chinese were angered at Russian failure to supply tanks or planes for their spring offensive. The air show completely overshadowed ground operations. Red troops continued to pull back from armored allied jabs.

South Koreans advanced the western end of the U.N. line two more miles Wednesday. They were helped by tanks that literally overran 14 Red guns. Other South Koreans moving up on the east seized control of the supply highway between Hongchon and the Red base at Inje.

Beef Price Ceilings Are Now Effective

Chicago, May 9 (AP)—Price ceilings on beef sold at wholesale became effective today amid indications that cattlemen were withholding stock shipments in protest against government rollbacks.

The Office of Price Stabilization on April 28 issued four orders designed to trim a dime a pound off the butcher shop price of beef by October. But, the American Meat Institute, which represents the major packers, and the livestock men warned that the OPS orders will lead to beef shortages and illegal markets.

Dollar and cents retail ceilings will be clamped down next Monday. Butcher shops must post retail ceiling price charts, by grade and cut, by June 4.

Food Prices Will Remain Stable To Early Summer

That Is Prediction Today of U. S. Agriculture Department in Washington

Washington, May 9 (AP)—The Agriculture Department predicted today that currently high food prices will remain fairly stable from now at least until early summer.

This forecast was based upon the assumption there will be no change in the international situation which might encourage scare buying by consumers.

Supplies of most foods were said to be adequate to maintain civilian consumption at least as large as a year earlier.

Retail food prices for the first quarter of this year were said to have averaged almost 15 per cent higher than a year earlier. Largest increases were reported for meats, eggs, fats and oils, and processed fruits and vegetables.

To Increase Later

The department said it is likely food prices will tend to increase more in the latter part of the year. It said the military and export demand will be stronger then and contribute to the upward price pressure started by the Korean war.

The department added, however, that price and wage controls, credit restrictions and proposed higher income taxes would tend to limit price rises that might occur.

The average rate of civilian food consumption is expected to be a little higher this year than last and about 14 per cent higher than the prewar average.

The department said the civilian supply of meat this year is expected to average 148 pounds, carcass weight, for each individual, compared with 144.5 last year, 126 before the war and a recent peak of 153.4 in 1946.

Hudson Volunteers May Ask City Funds

Hudson, N. Y., May 9 (AP)—The five volunteer fire companies here may ask financial support from the city to make up a loss of revenue due to a ban on bingo and raffles.

Fire Chief William Moore says he plans to confer soon with the fire company heads to consider making a formal request for an appropriation in the city budget.

The recent crackdown on games of chance, the firemen say, has cut off their chief source of income.

Moran Might Get Five Years In Federal 'Pen' As Perjurer

New York, May 9 (AP)—James J. Moran—holder of a lifetime $15,000-a-year city job just a few weeks ago—today faced the possibility of five years in a federal prison as a Kefauver committee perjurer.

Moran, a buddy of ex-Mayor William O'Dwyer for many years, was under conviction for lying about his relations with Brooklyn numbers racketeer Luis Weber.

Sentence will be imposed Friday by Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey. The maximum possible penalty for the perjury conviction is five years and a $2,000 fine.

Moran's counsel, Joseph L. Delaney, said he would advise Moran to appeal the sentence. No witnesses were called in Moran's defense, and he did not take the stand.

The 49-year-old politician is the first U. S. Senate Crime Committee witness to be brought to trial here.

The guilty verdict was reported late yesterday by a jury of seven women and five men after a trial lasting less than four court days. The jury deliberated only one hour and 35 minutes.

Moran remained free in $25,000 bail pending sentencing.

The defendant, a former first deputy fire commissioner, was convicted of perjury for testifying before the Senate probers that Weber had visited him in his fire department office no more than six times between 1946 and 1950.

Says Soviet Pact Aimed At Nippons

Secretary Suggests Group Quiz Acheson on Some Points When He Visits Committee

Saw General in '46

Marshall Says He Met MacArthur in Far East During Trip

Washington, May 9 (AP)—Secretary Marshall said today no Japanese are serving with United Nations troops in Korea largely because a Chinese-Russia defense pact is aimed at Japan.

He implied the fear was that using Japanese against the Chinese Communists might bring the Russians into the Korean war.

The defense secretary was in the witness chair for the third day before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees. They are inquiring into the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Far Eastern commander and the policy differences back of his removal.

Senator Byrd (D.-Va.) brought up the question of the Japanese. For months past, some lawmakers have been contending that Japanese volunteers ought to be permitted to serve with the UN forces.

There have been reports many Japanese were willing, some of them highly trained pilots and other military specialists.

Noting that the Sino-Russian pact is directed at any resumption of Japanese aggression, Marshall testified:

"The fact that the pact directly referred to the Japanese—possible intervention on the mainland of Asia—I know controlled the action of this government in not using any Japanese whatsoever in Korea. Beyond that, senator, I think I will have to pass it up to the State Department."

Will Be Witness

Secretary of State Dean Acheson is to be a witness later and Marshall meant the senators should ask Acheson about that.

Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.) asked Marshall if, during his mission to China in 1945-46, he ever consulted General MacArthur about "the formation of what was to be or what resulted in our China policy."

Marshall went to China at that time as a special representative of President Truman. His mission was to try to bring an end to the civil strife in China between Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government and the Chinese Communists.

Marshall told Wiley there was "no formal consultation" but that he saw MacArthur in March, 1946, and would assume that he made some comment to the Far Eastern commander about the China situation.

Wiley said that what he got from Marshall's answer was that "to your knowledge, this man, who has had that vast experience in the Philippines, who had fought his way up, and lived off and on twenty-five years out there, was not consulted by those in government who were planning the policy in the east, am I right?

Marshall: "I couldn't answer that specifically, senator, because I think there were consultations with individuals sent out by the State Department, but they can answer that directly."

Had No Directive

Marshall said he had no directive from the President to consult with MacArthur about his China mission.

Today's hearing, as have been the others, was held behind closed doors. A stenographic report of what is said is sent to news reporters. Military and State Department censors first go over it and cut out anything they think would be harmful to the national interest if made public.

Senator Fulbright (D.-Ark.) left the committee room an hour after the session began and said "it's very dull."

Fulbright predicted the questioning of Marshall would last at least two days longer and possibly five. He said the Republicans "are working together" in cross-examination. Senator Knowland (R.-Calif.) alone apparently has enough questions to take up a full session, Fulbright said.

Before today's session, Knowland told reporters he wants a

Hurley Taxpayers Approve Bonds for New Fire Building

Three-to-One Vote Carries Issue for $22,000 and Assures Place for Training

Taxpayers of Hurley Fire District last night by a three-to-one vote approved a $22,000 bond issue for a new fire house to be erected in the hamlet.

A total of 161 ballots was cast, with 120 in favor and 41 opposed. Voting was from 7 to 10 p. m. in the town hall.

The bond resolution was adopted by the board of fire commissioners April 16 and authorizes the construction and equipment of a fire house for the housing of fire apparatus of the district. In addition preliminary plans on view at the polls call for the construction of a suitable meeting room and training space.

Present Quarters Cramped

Equipment at present is housed in a small concrete building only large enough for the pumper and auxiliary water truck. It is expected that the new building will be constructed on the property owned at present by the fire district. This parcel is the site of the former pencil factory, which burned about nine years ago.

In charge of the voting last night were James Cunniff, chairman of the election; Jay Molyneaux, Isaac Rosa, Paul Weber and Winfred Snyder.

Fire district commissioners are Edmund Czerwinski, chairman; Stanley J. Matthews, secretary; Lyman T. Schoonmaker, Andrew Lehtonen and Richard O. Gruver. LeRoy Vogt is treasurer.

Appreciation and Praise

Czerwinski today asked The Freeman to extend the appreciation of the fire board and the fire company for the excellent supporting vote given to the proposition.

The Hurley Fire Company has been considered one of the most active county volunteer units. Another commissioner said today, "It is gratifying at last to be able to offer this outstanding company a place in which to train and meet, and a headquarters of its own in which it can play host to monthly meetings of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. Had this project been defeated it would have marked a decline in morale of our valuable volunteer organization.

State Tells Hurley Fire Board Injury Insurance Is Out

Fire Equipment, Firemen, Other Town Workers Not Protected Eight Days

What was described today by an official of the Hurley Fire District as "consternation and cold sweat" was experienced by them and members of the town board yesterday when it was learned that the fire and town boards had been without workmen's compensation coverage and equipment liability insurance for a period of eight days.

First word of this condition came yesterday to the fire commissioners in a letter from the State Workmen's Compensation Board. The letter told of the liquidation of the Preferred Accident Insurance Company of New York by Supreme Court order April 30.

As a result, it developed that members of the Hurley Fire Company, as well as regularly employed township employes, have been "officially" without compensation coverage. In addition, the equipment of the Hurley Fire District, also insured by the same company, has been without coverage it was reported. During that period the fire company answered one night alarm at the Henry Paul farm. There was no damage to equipment or injury to the firemen on that occasion.

No Knowledge or Consent

If action was taken to cover the town board or the fire board on the matter of policies, it was done without the consent or knowledge either of the fire commissioners or the town board, it was said today. No communication from the company or its agents had been received by the fire board at the time this story was written, it was reported on reliable authority.

The fire commissioners of the fire district carry accident and liability policies on the equipment of the company and the compensation on volunteer firemen was included in the policy carried by the town board on the town employes. The coverage was written by Benson A. Krom, Hurley, agent of the firm of Krom & Canavan.

Relyea Takes Steps

When the matter was discovered yesterday the fire commissioners and Supervisor Charles Relyea of the town of Hurley took immediate steps to see that coverage was placed.

The matter was taken up with Agent Krom and Relyea was told that a letter was to go out to all policy holders, who had been insured in the defunct company, notifying them of the liquidation

No One Appears To Discuss Budget

A scheduled public hearing on the 1951-52 school budget as required by law was held last evening at 8 o'clock at the high school.

Present were all members of the board except Trustees Kalish and Darling. The meeting was called at the scheduled hour and after remaining in session for over half an hour the meeting was adjourned when no one showed up to discuss the budget. The only persons attending the public hearing were board members and the press.

Final action on adoption of the budget will be taken at the next meeting of the board.

Budget Published

The complete budget was published at the time the board proposed its tentative figures. Under the budget proposed the tax rate will be $19.40 compared to a rate of $15.28 for the current year. The total cost of education in the city will be $1,631,897.06 and it will be necessary to raise by direct taxation the sum of $616,263.38.

Ten years ago the tax rate was $9.66 when the 1941-42 budget totaled, for all educational purposes, $660,609.49 and there was raised by general tax levy the sum of $223,023.83.

Increased costs of all commodities during the past 10 years has been responsible for annual increases which gradually brought the tax rate up from $9.66 to the present $19.40. One of the big factors in the increased budget however has been the increased salary schedule of teachers and board employes over the past few years.

Hudson Volunteers May Ask City Funds

Hudson, N. Y., May 9 (AP)—The five volunteer fire companies here may ask financial support from the city to make up a loss of revenue due to a ban on bingo and raffles.

Fire Chief William Moore says he plans to confer soon with the fire company heads to consider making a formal request for an appropriation in the city budget.

The recent crackdown on games of chance, the firemen say, has cut off their chief source of income.

Living Cost Protest Brings Serious Wounds to Five

Pamplona, Spain, May 9 (AP)—Police fired on a crowd of strikers demonstrating today against the high cost of living. Five were seriously wounded.

Fifty of the workers, taking part in a general strike which has paralyzed this industrial city, were arrested as "instigators" of the stoppage, which began yesterday.

Civil Governor Luis Valera Bermejo gave the strikers an ultimatum to return to their jobs by 2 p. m. this afternoon or face "grave sanctions." The workers defied the ultimatum, showing up in front of the factories but remaining outside discussing last night's skirmish with police during a previous demonstration.

Today's fighting began when strikers went to a plant where workers wanted to return to their jobs, and forced them to stay out.

A short time later, the strikers tried to march up the Plaza Del Castillo to the civil governor's palace, to renew their protests against the high cost of living.

Police opened firt. After the volley, five persons lay still on the ground. Nearly 50 others suffered minor injuries after police wielded clubs among the demonstrators.

The strike remained solid, with no indication that it would end before tomorrow.

All stores and cafes remained closed and transport services halted. No disorders were reported during the first part of this morning.

Club swinging police and guardsmen firing into the air halted the strike demonstration here last night.

Moran Might Get Five Years In Federal 'Pen' As Perjurer

New York, May 9 (AP)—James J. Moran—holder of a lifetime $15,000-a-year city job just a few weeks ago—today faced the possibility of five years in a federal prison as a Kefauver committee perjurer.

Moran, a buddy of ex-Mayor William O'Dwyer for many years, was under conviction for lying about his relations with Brooklyn numbers racketeer Luis Weber.

Sentence will be imposed Friday by Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey. The maximum possible penalty for the perjury conviction is five years and a $2,000 fine.

Moran's counsel, Joseph L. Delaney, said he would advise Moran to appeal the sentence. No witnesses were called in Moran's defense, and he did not take the stand.

The 49-year-old politician is the first U. S. Senate Crime Committee witness to be brought to trial here.

The guilty verdict was reported late yesterday by a jury of seven women and five men after a trial lasting less than four court days. The jury deliberated only one hour and 35 minutes.

Moran remained free in $25,000 bail pending sentencing.

The defendant, a former first deputy fire commissioner, was convicted of perjury for testifying before the Senate probers that Weber had visited him in his fire department office no more than six times between 1946 and 1950.

Fred Berger Co., Inc. will offer at public auction a 95-acre farm estate in Rifton on Saturday, June 2. The sale is scheduled to take place at 2 p. m., on the property.

Known as Woodcrest Farms, the property was formerly the J. W. Dimick estate, and is located on Route 213, bordering the Wallkill river, approximately 12 miles from Kingston and six miles from New Paltz. Almost one mile of highway frontage on two through thoroughfares is involved in the offering.

Immediate possession will be given to the entire property, which will be offered first in two separate parcels, then as one unit. Brought to New York

New York, May 9 (AP)—Eli Klukofsky was brought here early today from Miami, Fla., for arraignment on a charge of bribery in connection with the New York College basketball scandal. Klukofsky, alias Eli Kaye, arrived here by plane in custody of New York Detective Nicholas Barrett. He was booked at the Jamaica, Queens, precinct station and then taken to Manhattan police headquarters. At his booking, Klukofsky gave a Brooklyn address.

Local Ward Store Gave Training to 7 Firm Managers

Harry W. Reppert, manager of Montgomery Ward and Company's local store, has received congratulations from the New York regional office because of the many young men the local store has trained for promotion within the company.

Edward Souminen of Rifton started with Ward's in the shoe department, was transferred to Geneva, and is now departments manager of the second largest shoe department in the district at Ithaca.

Jason Roosa of Stone Ridge started in the local receiving department, transferred to hardware, then to paint, to the farm store, to basement manager and to operating manager. Then he was manager at Somerset, Pa., and Shamokin, Pa., and at present is manager of the Portsmouth, N. H., store.

Carl Brancato of Rosendale started in the receiving and shipping department, transferred to second man in sporting goods and is now department manager at Glens Falls.

Thomas Larkin of Kingston started in the local shoe department, transferred to Fulton as department manager of shoes and is now department manager of appliances and furniture.

John Nelson of Kingston started in the plumbing and heating department and is now department manager of the chain's Glens Falls store.

Anthony Bonomo of Kingston started in the receiving department and was transferred to the local rug department, where he took special training in laying inlaid linoleum. He then transferred and became second man in furniture and is now department manager at Amsterdam.

James Geary of Kingston began in the shoe department and was recently transferred to the Amsterdam store, where he is department manager.

Training usually starts in the receiving and shipping departments and the men advance from there to positions on the selling floor. After serving a period of time as a "second man" in the department, the man is advanced to department manager and from there to senior department head or assistant store manager, and then to store manager.

Why a "Job-Rated" truck is your safest investment

A "Job-Rated" truck is engineered at the factory to fit a specific job . . . save you money . . . last longer. Every unit from engine to rear axle is "Job-Rated"—engineered to haul a specific load over the roads you travel and at the speeds you require.

Every unit that SUPPORTS the load—frame, axles, springs, wheels, tires and others—is engineered right to provide the strength and capacity needed.

Every unit that MOVES the load—engine, clutch, transmission, propeller shaft, rear axle and others—is engineered right to meet a particular operating condition.

Safer stops with "Job-Rated" brakes

Step on the brakes of your Dodge "Job-Rated" truck and you're sure of smooth stopping action far in excess of normal requirements. You get long-lasting Cyclebond "no-rivet" brake lining—with lining area increased as G.V.W. rating goes up!

Now, on models 1½-ton and up, except air brake models, you get another Dodge "first"—new Tapered, Molded Cyclebond brake lining. It's longer-lasting, extra quiet—free from "squeal." Independent hand brake also adds to safety.

Safer steering and easier handling

Now, you can maneuver your Dodge "Job-Rated" truck with less effort! Steering is more accurate. New easy-acting worm-and-roller steering gears on many models.

To make driving still safer, Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks have new, shorter turning diameters. You also get the easy-handling advantages of cross-steering, short wheelbase, wide front tread. All these features add up to the easiest handling truck on the market!

Safer visibility with "Pilot-House" cabs

When you drive a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck you look through the biggest windshield of any popular truck! You have a clear close-up of the road, made possible by new, lower hood line. For even greater visibility you can get De Luxe and Custom cabs with rear quarter windows. All-steel "Pilot-House" cabs provide extra safety, too. Top, floor and sides are welded together—not bolted!

No wonder owners agree that Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks are the safest on the road!

INFLATION WILL SAP DEFENSE

No economic expert believes the inflation threat is ended in this country. On the contrary, the feeling is widespread that as defense orders swell in the months ahead the inflation spiral will soar to new heights.

The evidence pointing that way is available to all, including every member of Congress. No important economic factors lead in the opposite direction.

Yet in the face of this evidence, what is Congress doing or planning to do to curb inflation?

President Truman asked for a minimum of $10 billion in new taxes, partly to put the defense program on a pay-as-you-go basis and partly as an anti-inflation weapon. Reports emerging from the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee indicate he'll be fortunate to get a bill calling for a half or two-thirds of that sum.

It's well known that existing farm parity price law is one of the biggest bars to adequate control of the price structure. But again, sounds emanating from Capitol Hill make it plain little will be done to clamp a tight ceiling on food prices.

Government spending is a topic dear to the hearts of many lawmakers. Some of them have been harping on it for nearly two decades. But the trouble is they never do anything about it except talk. The economists agree that here, again, is a field where inflation could be affected through reduction of outlays.

Congress each year plays a little game in the name of economy. The House Appropriations Committee reports out certain bills covering various agencies, advertising sharp reductions from the President's budget estimates of January. These are presented as "savings."

What follows thereafter is less well advertised. Often the Senate simply restores the cuts and they're forgotten. Sometimes the reductions actually represent lowered department estimates, but the lawmakers take the credit. In many cases the slashes are really guesses that money needs in particular agencies will not be as great as the administration thinks.

If the guesses turn out to be wrong, then the affected agencies simply return later for more money. And they get it in so-called deficiency appropriation bills which are acted upon with much less fanfare than the major bills passed each year. Those deficiency measures cover a multitude of quietly corrected mistakes. Some are department errors, but plenty can be laid at the door of Congress.

Scanning congressional achievements and plans this year on the anti-inflation front, one can only conclude that our lawmakers do not intend to grapple seriously with the booming cost of the things we live by.

Since they can read the signs of inflation as well as the next fellow, we must assume either that they want a certain amount of additional inflation, or that they haven't the gumption to do anything drastic about it.

Price rises may rob us of from 10 to 20 per cent of the military "hardware" we're supposed to get under the President's current defense program. If that happens, the guns and tanks and planes will be gone just as surely as if they had been bombed to pieces by enemy aircraft.

Should a new inflation gnaw away at the hard substance of our defense, the thoughts of the American people may well go back to the casual attitude their lawmakers exhibited in this spring of 1951, while there was still a chance to do something about it.

WHO'S KIDDING?

One proposal of the Kefauver committee ought to puzzle a fellow who might drop in on us from another planet.

In its report, the Senate group recommended that criminals and racketeers be taxed on their gross incomes, allowing no deductions for operating expenses and wagering losses.

What this seems to say is this: You're engaged in illegal activities, and you shouldn't be. But as long as you insist on going ahead against the law anyway, the least you can do is not pretend you're running legitimate enterprises in which expenses and losses may be fairly calculated.

Wouldn't it be better to concentrate on stamping out illegal activities, rather than to figure how we can tax them more heavily?

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE CHINA STORY

This is a good time to read Freda Utley's "The China Story," a new book which sets out to establish by facts how the United States lost 400,000,000 allies. Freda Utley knows the Far East and has written competently concerning it. She states her conclusions:

"One thing is certain. Communist conquest of a large part of the world since the defeat of Germany and Japan, and the threat of even greater conquests, was not unavoidable. In the first part of this book, I shall show how what we did—and what we failed to do—in the Far East led us straight down the path to war in Korea."

This is a bare-to-the-bone, fact upon fact account of how the United States, by error and lack of understanding, not only gave China to Soviet Russia but brought the Korean war upon us. In view of the increasing velocity of the quarrel over facts between General Douglas MacArthur and President Truman, it will be advantageous to check what appears the controversial writers on the subject against Miss Utley's summary of events.

Any understanding of the Far Eastern situation, no matter where one's partisanship lies, must go back to Yalta, the Far Eastern terms of which Miss Utley summarizes as follows:

"1. The 'lease' of Port Arthur to Russia as a naval base;

"2. The 'internationalization' of Dairen with 'pre-eminent rights' for the Soviet Union in this largest of China's northeastern ports;

"3. The 'joint operation' of the Manchurian railways by China and Russia, with the 'pre-eminent interests' of the Soviet Union safeguarded."

It was in pursuit of the Yalta terms that General Marshall was sent to China to manage, cajole, arrange or force Chiang Kai-shek to conform to this agreement to which neither he nor China was a party. A memorandum by Secretary of State James Byrnes (1945) on this subject stated:

"Pending the outcome of General Marshall's discussions with Chinese leaders in Chungking . . . further transportation of Chinese troops to North China, except as North China ports may be necessary for the movement of troops and supplies into Manchuria, will be held in abeyance."

In other words, sanctions were imposed upon our ally and friend, Nationalist China, in the interest of Soviet Russia. This appeasement has already resulted in the death of more than 10,500 Americans and more than 62,000 casualties.

General Marshall has never understood either China or communism. Apparently he could not, even in 1947, grasp the nature of Russian imperialism nor the extent of international Marxism. He seemed to be astonished that Chiang Kai-shek would not form an alliance with the Communists and, as Miss Utley says, he accepted the Marxist definition of a reactionary. This is what General Marshall declared on January 7, 1947:

"On the side of the National government, which is in effect the Kuomintang, there is a dominant group of reactionaries who have been opposed, in my opinion, to almost every effort I have made to influence the formation of genuine coalition government . . . they were quite frank in publicly stating that their belief that cooperation by the Chinese Communist Party in the government was inconceivable and that only a policy of force could settle the issue."

Miss Utley is a former Communist who has devoted much of her life, at great personal sacrifice, to undo the evils of this party. She says of herself:

"I first met Owen Lattimore in April 1936 in Moscow, where I had been living for nearly six years as the wife of a Russian (a Soviet citizen but not a member of the Communist Party). I was employed as a research worker in the Pacific Ocean section of the Institute of World Economy and Politics. This institute had become the Russian branch of the Institute of Pacific Relations a year or so earlier when the Kremlin switched over to the 'Popular Front' policy, and the Communist Academy (of which the Institute formed a part) was rechristened Academy of Sciences. For the benefit of the visiting Americans, a room had been taken in another part of the town and a notice put up saying 'Soviet Council of the Institute of Pacific Relations.' It was here that E. C. Carter, president of the American Institute, and Owen Lattimore were first received by the leading Communists at the Institute. As I had left the Communist Party years earlier, I could not attend their private meetings. . . ."

EMOTIONS AND BLOOD PRESSURE

A few years ago a boxer with a slight heart murmur was passed regularly as fit by the Boxing Commission physician because there were no symptoms such as breathlessness and no enlargement of the heart. His blood pressure was normal. One morning, on his way to box in a city 200 miles distant, his car overturned twice. He was unhurt. When he arrived at the medical examiner's office at 2 p. m., the physician was doubtful about allowing him to box that evening as his blood pressure was high. The boxer reminded the physician that he had boxed in other cities and probaby his motor accident had caused his blood pressure to rise. The physician finally decided to let him box, but promised to be there to watch the bout and stop it if he thought it wise. The boxer was so nervous, from nearly being rejected, that he lost the decision.

No single medical subject is discussed as much as high blood pressure today and our research physicians are now agreed that the emotions raise the pressure in a great many cases.

In The Journal of Clinical Investigation, Cincinnati, Drs. J. B. Pfeiffer and H. G. Wolff discuss "Life Stress and Blood Pressure Variations." They found that a rise in blood pressure occurred when there was discussion of "personal topics in which there was the element of threatened danger." There were 35 patients, 13 with normal blood pressure and 22 with hypertension (high blood pressure). Investigation showed that with emotional disturbances there was persistent tenseness or spasm in the small blood vessels in the kidneys which made it necessary for the heart to pump harder to push the blood through these tight blood vessels. There was increased pressure in both the normal and the patients with high blood pressure, but it was more marked in the patients with high blood pressure.

The fact that emotions can cause a tightening or partial closure of the blood vessels during discussions that threaten the health or security of the individual can be readily understood when we remember how the emotions affect many, if not all, the various body processes, including the stomach, intestines, liver, heart and lungs.

As long as we are human we will have emotional disturbances but it is schooling ourselves as best how to meet them that is necessary. Following the departing advice, "Take it easy," is the best prescription for the majority of us. "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

Bill and the Bull

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — While the most glamorous man in the U.S.A. was in Washington testifying before the Senate, the most glamorous gal in the U.S.A. was also near Washington, though she kept a long way from the Senate.

Though newspaper headlines played up reports that Rita Hayworth was in Reno preparing to shed her title of princess, actually she was spending a few days on the Pearson farm in Maryland where she seemed more interested in 47 queens of the dairy barn, a couple of horses, and our prize Holstein bulls, "Harry S. Truman" and Prediction No. 1" than in the near-by MacArthur show in the Senate.

After trying to cover the latter show, I got out to the farm late one afternoon to find a much more difficult problem staring me stark in the face.

Up until that point, things apparently had gone well. The farm hands had taken the presence of visiting royalty and Hollywood glamor in their stride. The dairyman's children did not even ask Miss Hayworth for an autograph, nor did our conscientious colored helper, Harry Clipper, a plate-passing deacon at the Seneca Baptist Church, ask for a contribution. Nobody was thrown by the horses, Harry Truman did not break down the fence as he usually does on the slightest excuse; while the dogwood, the tulips, and the iris put on a glamor show rivaling anything in Hollywood.

No Bath for Rita

However, I could see the minute I got out of my car and greeted Mrs. P that all was not well. Mrs. P had that steely glint in her eye which I had not seen for a long, long time—in fact, not since the hogs got loose and made mincemeat out of her deck tennis court.

"The water," said Mrs. P, "is off. Just how is Rita going to take a bath?"

"Have you called Leon Lowery?" I asked, referring to our neighbor who can fix anything from my grandson's nursing bottle to the twine-knotter on a new Holland pickup hay-bailer.

"Leon is busy and won't come," replied the little woman.

"I'm sure if you told him that Rita Hayworth needed a bath he'd come in a minute," I suggested.

"It isn't only a bath," reminded Mrs. P., who had been faced with the drouth all day. "How do we wash the dishes? And what do we drink?"

"Well, we could try gin." But the crack didn't go over at all big.

"Maybe your cows would like gin, too?' shot back Mrs. P., aiming at a weak spot. "If you're not worried about baths for Rita and the Jackson Leighters and all the dirty dishes, at least I know you'll worry about your cows."

This, I confess, made me think twice. Because when cows get no water to drink, they give less milk, and when they give less milk my score goes down; and I have been aiming for a milk score that would beat Carroll Morgan's, who taunts me with his high score every time we meet.

Finally, I got Leon Lowery on the telephone. He had ordered an extra part for the pump a month ago, but Jake Snyder of Farmers Supply had forgotten to order it. So the pump couldn't get fixed that night, Rita couldn't get a bath, the dishes couldn't get washed, I couldn't shave in the morning, and my cows would get a lower score than Carroll Morgan's.

"Maybe Rita could do without a bath," I suggested hopefully. "I'll bet when she was a kid back in Brooklyn she even argued with her mother that she didn't want to bathe at all."

"Yes, but what about your cows?" reminded Mrs. P.

"Well, that's different," I admitted.

"And we can't flush the toilets."

"But we can used the byrd house," I argued, referring to the Chic Sales job up near the dairy barn. "Anyway, your and my ancestors and even Rita's, never had any toilets to flush. Why should we be so snobbish?"

Lizards in the Pipe

"Furthermore," I argued, I confess a little desperately, "look at New York city and all the trouble they had about water. We're not the only ones who have problems. Or take Los Angeles. Mayor Bowron out there is always making my daughter quit watering her lawn.

"Furthermore," say I. "I would like to quote an issue of a noted column—The Washington Merry-Go-Round—which recently said, 'A calamity worse than the atom bomb is being studied by scientists—the increasing shortage of water in the United States.'

"You and Rita will just have to get ready for the ultimate future," I concluded, "and the fact that our pump broke down is just good practice for the days that lie ahead."

However, it didn't do any good. By this time I had a strong suspicion where the argument was heading. There has long been a difference of opinion inside the Pearson family about the relative merits of water from a spring and water from a well. Miss Hayworth, so far as I could see, was not really perturbed about her bath. I imagine there were a good many days traveling through Africa with Prince Ali Kahn that she never got a bath at all, and I gathered this was not the grounds for their impending divorce. So I had sort of an inkling of what was coming.

"Don't you think," said Mrs. P, changing to her most dulcet tones, "that what we really need is a well all our own—a well that we don't have to share with your 47 thirsty cows and the farm families? After all, a well would be so much better than a spring, with all those lizards always crawling into the pipe. I think you should call up a well-digger and get started tomorrow. After all, you're always building some silo or other that doesn't do any good except stick up in the air and spoil the scenery."

"But how is Jackson Leighter going to reduce if he doesn't help me fill the silo?" say I, referring to my well-padded radio agent, who, with Mrs. Leighter, has been traveling with Rita.

However, I saw it was no use. Rita Hayworth is a charming gal and a swell sport. She didn't mind the water shortage at all. But she has done me a great disfavor. Thanks to her, I have been euchred into drilling a well.

However, though Mrs. P doesn't know it yet, I am going to connect the well to the cow barn. I just can't afford to let my milk score drop.

Marshall Stand Means Chiefs of Staff Are Not Permitted to Criticize Democrats

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 9—Secretary of Defense George Marshall has enunciated in his testimony before the Senate Armed Services Committee the astounding doctrine that the minority party in Congress is not entitled to full and truthful answers from officers in the armed services and that, in answering letters of inquiry, officers must be guided by their first loyalty to the Democratic administration, which he calls the "constituted authority."

Under such circumstances, it seems improbable that any testimony from the joint chiefs of staff or any other military officers hereafter could contain a single word of information which could possibly reflect upon the Democratic administration.

Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, Republican, endeavored to pin Secretary Marshall down to whether an officer's first loyalty is to his country or to the administration in power, and the secretary insisted that the only way an officer could express himself when he felt the interests of his country were at stake was to resign from the military service. A man must sacrifice his career if he wants to tell his views to members of Congress. This will not be good news to men in the fighting services who thought that party politics was not to be considered in relations with their government—and who had been taught to consider Congress a civilian branch of the government coordinate with the executive branch.

More significant, however, in Mr. Marshall's testimony was his revelation of what critics in Congress already are saying is the administration's "appeasement" plan in the Far East. The secretary stated that the "unification of North and South Korea has been set up as a political rather than a military objective of the U.N."

The same phrasing was used by Secretary of State Acheson in a speech a few days ago to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and, by instruction of the Department of State, the same wording was also uttered recently in an address by Warren Austin, American ambassador to the U.N.

It means that, while the United States government will continue to oppose recognition of Red China and also the turning over of Formosa to Red China, the other members of the U.N. will have to decide the issue. The United States government, through Secretary Acheson, has already made it clear that no veto power will be used and that America will abide by what the majority of other members of the United Nations wish to do. If they want to reward the aggressor and erase the sacrifices of American troops in Korea, the United States will accept the "appeasement."

This means that the 38th Parallel may again be the boundary between North and South Korea and that the U.N. will try by diplomacy to get "unification" but that, if Russia and China refuse to accept it, then, assuming a "cease fire" has occurred, the fighting will not be resumed. This is because the U.N. feels it is not committed to accomplish the objectives in Korea by military means.

The Marshall testimony has produced a wave of questioning and criticism in the Senate committee. He will be on the stand for several days. He has not yet satisfactorily explained how the administration intends to end the war in Korea or why it now sets up the bogey of Russian intervention in the war when it had no such fear last June at the time the orders went to General MacArthur to land forces in Korea.

President Truman, on the other hand, has, through his latest speech, notified Russia that America is so afraid of having its cities bombed that it will not take maximum steps to stop aggression in the Far East. Mr. Truman says that, if the United States were to widen the conflict in Asia, "we might well have to go it alone."

Yet that's what has been happening, in effect, since last June. The United States alone—outside of the South Koreans—has been supplying all the troops. The U.N. has refused to send reinforcements. The principal U.N. members have only token representation on the firing line. Instead of winning allies, America has, as a practical matter, been deserted already by its allies with respect to Korea.

The President's speech might be construed to mean that he has lost faith in the willingness of our allies to support our troops in the Far East. As a consequence, the question of withdrawing American troops from Korea is bound to be raised. For, as one senator said, it doesn't help to point out how many Red Chinese are being killed—what's important is how many American boys are being killed and wounded while the so-called "war of attrition" drags on.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

In the "Spectator" the year book of the Kingston Academy of 1906 there is a description of May Day, which reads in part as follows: "First in the order of events was the procession which started shortly after 2 o'clock from the girls' entrance on Maiden Lane and marched to the Clinton avenue entrance where the crowning of the Queen took place. Rose Kemble was queen. After the queen and her escorts came the seniors, juniors, sophomores and freshmen. Before sending the classes out Mr. Michael made the startling announcement that each gentleman should choose a lady friend with whom to march. Consternation reigned. For the gentlemen sat quietly in their seats and refused to budge until Prof. Michael was forced to couple them off. There was a May Pole Dance of course, and a basketball game, with refreshments served afterwards. One of the cheers which may interest Kingston High School students or perhaps they still use something like it today was: "Hobble Gobble. Razzle Dazzle. Siss boom bah, Kingston Academy, Rah, Rah, Rah!"

From the Alumni Notes I see "Andrew S. Hickey is at Annapolis. Julia Searing is president of the senior class at Vassar. . . . Many of this class have been instructing the youth of the nation in the three R's. Carolyn Munnelly is a teacher in Port Ewen. . . .Charles Mergendahl at Flatbush. . . ." I recognize several of the names in the Class of 1906. Roger H. Loughran was secretary. E. Everett Fessenden, Harold E. Snow, Florence Van Etten.

Back in 1906 the Kingston Academy had a Girls' Athletic Association and seems they wore 'gym' clothes of that era, as they had a gymnasium and played basketball. Item read in part: "With the kind help of Prof. Shear we have established our basketball field on the North Campus."

I found among my father's collection of local newspapers on boats and bridges the Kingston Daily Freeman, of Saturday, July 29th, 1939. The full page illustrated article is called "Days of Mary Powell on her 78th Anniversary as the launching of that famous boat took place at Jersey City on July 29th, 1861." The information for the article was gathered by well known veteran marine engineer, George W. Murdock. He goes right back to before the Civil War when Captain Absalom Anderson bought the "Robert L. Stevens" steamboat and later purchased the "Thomas Powell" and started passenger transportation from Rondout.

There is an interesting item on the controversial subject, that is, the naming of the Mary Powell. According to Murdock and the State Historical Society, the Powell was named in honor of the wife of Thomas Powell, and mother-in-law of Homer Ramsdell of Newburgh. He also describes how the Mary Powell was first berthed at Port Ewen in 1861-1862 and next spring made her social debut, not to be surpassed in speed until June 11, 1885. The "Stiletto" a steam yacht was able to pass her, and this same "Stiletto" became a torpedo boat in the United States navy later.

INFLATION WILL SAP DEFENSE

No economic expert believes the inflation threat is ended in this country. On the contrary, the feeling is widespread that as defense orders swell in the months ahead the inflation spiral will soar to new heights.

The evidence pointing that way is available to all, including every member of Congress. No important economic factors lead in the opposite direction.

Yet in the face of this evidence, what is Congress doing or planning to do to curb inflation?

President Truman asked for a minimum of $10 billion in new taxes, partly to put the defense program on a pay-as-you-go basis and partly as an anti-inflation weapon. Reports emerging from the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee indicate he'll be fortunate to get a bill calling for a half or two-thirds of that sum.

It's well known that existing farm parity price law is one of the biggest bars to adequate control of the price structure. But again, sounds emanating from Capitol Hill make it plain little will be done to clamp a tight ceiling on food prices.

Government spending is a topic dear to the hearts of many lawmakers. Some of them have been harping on it for nearly two decades. But the trouble is they never do anything about it except talk. The economists agree that here, again, is a field where inflation could be affected through reduction of outlays.

Congress each year plays a little game in the name of economy. The House Appropriations Committee reports out certain bills covering various agencies, advertising sharp reductions from the President's budget estimates of January. These are presented as "savings."

What follows thereafter is less well advertised. Often the Senate simply restores the cuts and they're forgotten. Sometimes the reductions actually represent lowered department estimates, but the lawmakers take the credit. In many cases the slashes are really guesses that money needs in particular agencies will not be as great as the administration thinks.

If the guesses turn out to be wrong, then the affected agencies simply return later for more money. And they get it in so-called deficiency appropriation bills which are acted upon with much less fanfare than the major bills passed each year. Those deficiency measures cover a multitude of quietly corrected mistakes. Some are department errors, but plenty can be laid at the door of Congress.

Scanning congressional achievements and plans this year on the anti-inflation front, one can only conclude that our lawmakers do not intend to grapple seriously with the booming cost of the things we live by.

Since they can read the signs of inflation as well as the next fellow, we must assume either that they want a certain amount of additional inflation, or that they haven't the gumption to do anything drastic about it.

Price rises may rob us of from 10 to 20 per cent of the military "hardware" we're supposed to get under the President's current defense program. If that happens, the guns and tanks and planes will be gone just as surely as if they had been bombed to pieces by enemy aircraft.

Should a new inflation gnaw away at the hard substance of our defense, the thoughts of the American people may well go back to the casual attitude their lawmakers exhibited in this spring of 1951, while there was still a chance to do something about it.

WHO'S KIDDING?

One proposal of the Kefauver committee ought to puzzle a fellow who might drop in on us from another planet.

In its report, the Senate group recommended that criminals and racketeers be taxed on their gross incomes, allowing no deductions for operating expenses and wagering losses.

What this seems to say is this: You're engaged in illegal activities, and you shouldn't be. But as long as you insist on going ahead against the law anyway, the least you can do is not pretend you're running legitimate enterprises in which expenses and losses may be fairly calculated.

Wouldn't it be better to concentrate on stamping out illegal activities, rather than to figure how we can tax them more heavily?

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE CHINA STORY

This is a good time to read Freda Utley's "The China Story," a new book which sets out to establish by facts how the United States lost 400,000,000 allies. Freda Utley knows the Far East and has written competently concerning it. She states her conclusions:

"One thing is certain. Communist conquest of a large part of the world since the defeat of Germany and Japan, and the threat of even greater conquests, was not unavoidable. In the first part of this book, I shall show how what we did—and what we failed to do—in the Far East led us straight down the path to war in Korea."

This is a bare-to-the-bone, fact upon fact account of how the United States, by error and lack of understanding, not only gave China to Soviet Russia but brought the Korean war upon us. In view of the increasing velocity of the quarrel over facts between General Douglas MacArthur and President Truman, it will be advantageous to check what appears the controversial writers on the subject against Miss Utley's summary of events.

Any understanding of the Far Eastern situation, no matter where one's partisanship lies, must go back to Yalta, the Far Eastern terms of which Miss Utley summarizes as follows:

"1. The 'lease' of Port Arthur to Russia as a naval base;

"2. The 'internationalization' of Dairen with 'pre-eminent rights' for the Soviet Union in this largest of China's northeastern ports;

"3. The 'joint operation' of the Manchurian railways by China and Russia, with the 'pre-eminent interests' of the Soviet Union safeguarded."

It was in pursuit of the Yalta terms that General Marshall was sent to China to manage, cajole, arrange or force Chiang Kai-shek to conform to this agreement to which neither he nor China was a party. A memorandum by Secretary of State James Byrnes (1945) on this subject stated:

"Pending the outcome of General Marshall's discussions with Chinese leaders in Chungking . . . further transportation of Chinese troops to North China, except as North China ports may be necessary for the movement of troops and supplies into Manchuria, will be held in abeyance."

In other words, sanctions were imposed upon our ally and friend, Nationalist China, in the interest of Soviet Russia. This appeasement has already resulted in the death of more than 10,500 Americans and more than 62,000 casualties.

General Marshall has never understood either China or communism. Apparently he could not, even in 1947, grasp the nature of Russian imperialism nor the extent of international Marxism. He seemed to be astonished that Chiang Kai-shek would not form an alliance with the Communists and, as Miss Utley says, he accepted the Marxist definition of a reactionary. This is what General Marshall declared on January 7, 1947:

"On the side of the National government, which is in effect the Kuomintang, there is a dominant group of reactionaries who have been opposed, in my opinion, to almost every effort I have made to influence the formation of genuine coalition government . . . they were quite frank in publicly stating that their belief that cooperation by the Chinese Communist Party in the government was inconceivable and that only a policy of force could settle the issue."

Miss Utley is a former Communist who has devoted much of her life, at great personal sacrifice, to undo the evils of this party. She says of herself:

"I first met Owen Lattimore in April 1936 in Moscow, where I had been living for nearly six years as the wife of a Russian (a Soviet citizen but not a member of the Communist Party). I was employed as a research worker in the Pacific Ocean section of the Institute of World Economy and Politics. This institute had become the Russian branch of the Institute of Pacific Relations a year or so earlier when the Kremlin switched over to the 'Popular Front' policy, and the Communist Academy (of which the Institute formed a part) was rechristened Academy of Sciences. For the benefit of the visiting Americans, a room had been taken in another part of the town and a notice put up saying 'Soviet Council of the Institute of Pacific Relations.' It was here that E. C. Carter, president of the American Institute, and Owen Lattimore were first received by the leading Communists at the Institute. As I had left the Communist Party years earlier, I could not attend their private meetings. . . ."

EMOTIONS AND BLOOD PRESSURE

A few years ago a boxer with a slight heart murmur was passed regularly as fit by the Boxing Commission physician because there were no symptoms such as breathlessness and no enlargement of the heart. His blood pressure was normal. One morning, on his way to box in a city 200 miles distant, his car overturned twice. He was unhurt. When he arrived at the medical examiner's office at 2 p. m., the physician was doubtful about allowing him to box that evening as his blood pressure was high. The boxer reminded the physician that he had boxed in other cities and probaby his motor accident had caused his blood pressure to rise. The physician finally decided to let him box, but promised to be there to watch the bout and stop it if he thought it wise. The boxer was so nervous, from nearly being rejected, that he lost the decision.

No single medical subject is discussed as much as high blood pressure today and our research physicians are now agreed that the emotions raise the pressure in a great many cases.

In The Journal of Clinical Investigation, Cincinnati, Drs. J. B. Pfeiffer and H. G. Wolff discuss "Life Stress and Blood Pressure Variations." They found that a rise in blood pressure occurred when there was discussion of "personal topics in which there was the element of threatened danger." There were 35 patients, 13 with normal blood pressure and 22 with hypertension (high blood pressure). Investigation showed that with emotional disturbances there was persistent tenseness or spasm in the small blood vessels in the kidneys which made it necessary for the heart to pump harder to push the blood through these tight blood vessels. There was increased pressure in both the normal and the patients with high blood pressure, but it was more marked in the patients with high blood pressure.

The fact that emotions can cause a tightening or partial closure of the blood vessels during discussions that threaten the health or security of the individual can be readily understood when we remember how the emotions affect many, if not all, the various body processes, including the stomach, intestines, liver, heart and lungs.

As long as we are human we will have emotional disturbances but it is schooling ourselves as best how to meet them that is necessary. Following the departing advice, "Take it easy," is the best prescription for the majority of us. "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — While the most glamorous man in the U.S.A. was in Washington testifying before the Senate, the most glamorous gal in the U.S.A. was also near Washington, though she kept a long way from the Senate.

Though newspaper headlines played up reports that Rita Hayworth was in Reno preparing to shed her title of princess, actually she was spending a few days on the Pearson farm in Maryland where she seemed more interested in 47 queens of the dairy barn, a couple of horses, and our prize Holstein bulls, "Harry S. Truman" and Prediction No. 1" than in the near-by MacArthur show in the Senate.

After trying to cover the latter show, I got out to the farm late one afternoon to find a much more difficult problem staring me stark in the face.

Up until that point, things apparently had gone well. The farm hands had taken the presence of visiting royalty and Hollywood glamor in their stride. The dairyman's children did not even ask Miss Hayworth for an autograph, nor did our conscientious colored helper, Harry Clipper, a plate-passing deacon at the Seneca Baptist Church, ask for a contribution. Nobody was thrown by the horses, Harry Truman did not break down the fence as he usually does on the slightest excuse; while the dogwood, the tulips, and the iris put on a glamor show rivaling anything in Hollywood.

No Bath for Rita

However, I could see the minute I got out of my car and greeted Mrs. P that all was not well. Mrs. P had that steely glint in her eye which I had not seen for a long, long time—in fact, not since the hogs got loose and made mincemeat out of her deck tennis court.

"The water," said Mrs. P, "is off. Just how is Rita going to take a bath?"

"Have you called Leon Lowery?" I asked, referring to our neighbor who can fix anything from my grandson's nursing bottle to the twine-knotter on a new Holland pickup hay-bailer.

"Leon is busy and won't come," replied the little woman.

"I'm sure if you told him that Rita Hayworth needed a bath he'd come in a minute," I suggested.

"It isn't only a bath," reminded Mrs. P., who had been faced with the drouth all day. "How do we wash the dishes? And what do we drink?"

"Well, we could try gin." But the crack didn't go over at all big.

"Maybe your cows would like gin, too?' shot back Mrs. P., aiming at a weak spot. "If you're not worried about baths for Rita and the Jackson Leighters and all the dirty dishes, at least I know you'll worry about your cows."

This, I confess, made me think twice. Because when cows get no water to drink, they give less milk, and when they give less milk my score goes down; and I have been aiming for a milk score that would beat Carroll Morgan's, who taunts me with his high score every time we meet.

Finally, I got Leon Lowery on the telephone. He had ordered an extra part for the pump a month ago, but Jake Snyder of Farmers Supply had forgotten to order it. So the pump couldn't get fixed that night, Rita couldn't get a bath, the dishes couldn't get washed, I couldn't shave in the morning, and my cows would get a lower score than Carroll Morgan's.

"Maybe Rita could do without a bath," I suggested hopefully. "I'll bet when she was a kid back in Brooklyn she even argued with her mother that she didn't want to bathe at all."

"Yes, but what about your cows?" reminded Mrs. P.

"Well, that's different," I admitted.

"And we can't flush the toilets."

"But we can used the byrd house," I argued, referring to the Chic Sales job up near the dairy barn. "Anyway, your and my ancestors and even Rita's, never had any toilets to flush. Why should we be so snobbish?"

Lizards in the Pipe

"Furthermore," I argued, I confess a little desperately, "look at New York city and all the trouble they had about water. We're not the only ones who have problems. Or take Los Angeles. Mayor Bowron out there is always making my daughter quit watering her lawn.

"Furthermore," say I. "I would like to quote an issue of a noted column—The Washington Merry-Go-Round—which recently said, 'A calamity worse than the atom bomb is being studied by scientists—the increasing shortage of water in the United States.'

"You and Rita will just have to get ready for the ultimate future," I concluded, "and the fact that our pump broke down is just good practice for the days that lie ahead."

However, it didn't do any good. By this time I had a strong suspicion where the argument was heading. There has long been a difference of opinion inside the Pearson family about the relative merits of water from a spring and water from a well. Miss Hayworth, so far as I could see, was not really perturbed about her bath. I imagine there were a good many days traveling through Africa with Prince Ali Kahn that she never got a bath at all, and I gathered this was not the grounds for their impending divorce. So I had sort of an inkling of what was coming.

"Don't you think," said Mrs. P, changing to her most dulcet tones, "that what we really need is a well all our own—a well that we don't have to share with your 47 thirsty cows and the farm families? After all, a well would be so much better than a spring, with all those lizards always crawling into the pipe. I think you should call up a well-digger and get started tomorrow. After all, you're always building some silo or other that doesn't do any good except stick up in the air and spoil the scenery."

"But how is Jackson Leighter going to reduce if he doesn't help me fill the silo?" say I, referring to my well-padded radio agent, who, with Mrs. Leighter, has been traveling with Rita.

However, I saw it was no use. Rita Hayworth is a charming gal and a swell sport. She didn't mind the water shortage at all. But she has done me a great disfavor. Thanks to her, I have been euchred into drilling a well.

However, though Mrs. P doesn't know it yet, I am going to connect the well to the cow barn. I just can't afford to let my milk score drop.

Marshall Stand Means Chiefs of Staff Are Not Permitted to Criticize Democrats

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 9—Secretary of Defense George Marshall has enunciated in his testimony before the Senate Armed Services Committee the astounding doctrine that the minority party in Congress is not entitled to full and truthful answers from officers in the armed services and that, in answering letters of inquiry, officers must be guided by their first loyalty to the Democratic administration, which he calls the "constituted authority."

Under such circumstances, it seems improbable that any testimony from the joint chiefs of staff or any other military officers hereafter could contain a single word of information which could possibly reflect upon the Democratic administration.

Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, Republican, endeavored to pin Secretary Marshall down to whether an officer's first loyalty is to his country or to the administration in power, and the secretary insisted that the only way an officer could express himself when he felt the interests of his country were at stake was to resign from the military service. A man must sacrifice his career if he wants to tell his views to members of Congress. This will not be good news to men in the fighting services who thought that party politics was not to be considered in relations with their government—and who had been taught to consider Congress a civilian branch of the government coordinate with the executive branch.

More significant, however, in Mr. Marshall's testimony was his revelation of what critics in Congress already are saying is the administration's "appeasement" plan in the Far East. The secretary stated that the "unification of North and South Korea has been set up as a political rather than a military objective of the U.N."

The same phrasing was used by Secretary of State Acheson in a speech a few days ago to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and, by instruction of the Department of State, the same wording was also uttered recently in an address by Warren Austin, American ambassador to the U.N.

It means that, while the United States government will continue to oppose recognition of Red China and also the turning over of Formosa to Red China, the other members of the U.N. will have to decide the issue. The United States government, through Secretary Acheson, has already made it clear that no veto power will be used and that America will abide by what the majority of other members of the United Nations wish to do. If they want to reward the aggressor and erase the sacrifices of American troops in Korea, the United States will accept the "appeasement."

This means that the 38th Parallel may again be the boundary between North and South Korea and that the U.N. will try by diplomacy to get "unification" but that, if Russia and China refuse to accept it, then, assuming a "cease fire" has occurred, the fighting will not be resumed. This is because the U.N. feels it is not committed to accomplish the objectives in Korea by military means.

The Marshall testimony has produced a wave of questioning and criticism in the Senate committee. He will be on the stand for several days. He has not yet satisfactorily explained how the administration intends to end the war in Korea or why it now sets up the bogey of Russian intervention in the war when it had no such fear last June at the time the orders went to General MacArthur to land forces in Korea.

President Truman, on the other hand, has, through his latest speech, notified Russia that America is so afraid of having its cities bombed that it will not take maximum steps to stop aggression in the Far East. Mr. Truman says that, if the United States were to widen the conflict in Asia, "we might well have to go it alone."

Yet that's what has been happening, in effect, since last June. The United States alone—outside of the South Koreans—has been supplying all the troops. The U.N. has refused to send reinforcements. The principal U.N. members have only token representation on the firing line. Instead of winning allies, America has, as a practical matter, been deserted already by its allies with respect to Korea.

The President's speech might be construed to mean that he has lost faith in the willingness of our allies to support our troops in the Far East. As a consequence, the question of withdrawing American troops from Korea is bound to be raised. For, as one senator said, it doesn't help to point out how many Red Chinese are being killed—what's important is how many American boys are being killed and wounded while the so-called "war of attrition" drags on.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

In the "Spectator" the year book of the Kingston Academy of 1906 there is a description of May Day, which reads in part as follows: "First in the order of events was the procession which started shortly after 2 o'clock from the girls' entrance on Maiden Lane and marched to the Clinton avenue entrance where the crowning of the Queen took place. Rose Kemble was queen. After the queen and her escorts came the seniors, juniors, sophomores and freshmen. Before sending the classes out Mr. Michael made the startling announcement that each gentleman should choose a lady friend with whom to march. Consternation reigned. For the gentlemen sat quietly in their seats and refused to budge until Prof. Michael was forced to couple them off. There was a May Pole Dance of course, and a basketball game, with refreshments served afterwards. One of the cheers which may interest Kingston High School students or perhaps they still use something like it today was: "Hobble Gobble. Razzle Dazzle, Siss boom bah, Kingston Academy, Rah, Rah, Rah!"

From the Alumni Notes I see "Andrew S. Hickey is at Annapolis. Julia Searing is president of the senior class at Vassar. . . . Many of this class have been instructing the youth of the nation in the three R's. Carolyn Munnelly is a teacher in Port Ewen. . . .Charles Mergendahl at Flatbush. . . ." I recognize several of the names in the Class of 1906. Roger H. Loughran was secretary. E. Everett Fessenden, Harold E. Snow, Florence Van Etten.

Back in 1906 the Kingston Academy had a Girls' Athletic Association and seems they wore 'gym' clothes of that era, as they had a gymnasium and played basketball. Item read in part: "With the kind help of Prof. Shear we have established our basketball field on the North Campus."

I found among my father's collection of local newspapers on boats and bridges the Kingston Daily Freeman, of Saturday, July 29th, 1939. The full page illustrated article is called "Days of Mary Powell on her 78th Anniversary as the launching of that famous boat took place at Jersey City on July 29th, 1861." The information for the article was gathered by well known veteran marine engineer, George W. Murdock. He goes right back to before the Civil War when Captain Absalom Anderson bought the "Robert L. Stevens" steamboat and later purchased the "Thomas Powell" and started passenger transportation from Rondout.

There is an interesting item on the controversial subject, that is, the naming of the Mary Powell. According to Murdock and the State Historical Society, the Powell was named in honor of the wife of Thomas Powell, and mother-in-law of Homer Ramsdell of Newburgh. He also describes how the Mary Powell was first berthed at Port Ewen in 1861-1862 and next spring made her social debut, not to be surpassed in speed until June 11, 1885. The "Stiletto" a steam yacht was able to pass her, and this same "Stiletto" became a torpedo boat in the United States navy later.

Moran Might . . .

Prosecution witnesses told of at least 111 visits.

Moran was cited 38 times in last week's report by the Senate committee, which also criticized O'Dwyer.

Moran got his fire department job from O'Dwyer and shortly before leaving city hall last fall to become ambassador to Mexico, O'Dwyer handed him an even juicier political plum—a post as water supply commissioner which was supposed to last for life. But Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri forced Moran to resign after the Kefauver testimony.

Moran told the Senate probers that Weber, 51, visited him only a few times, to discuss ship-scaling contracts involving fireboats. Government counsel called this a "flimsy, phony excuse."

Weber testified before the committee that he never visited Moran, and didn't even know him. Also indicted on perjury charges, Weber faces trial May 14.

State Republican Chairman Regrets Death of de Hoyas

Chairman William L. Pfeiffer of the New York State Republican Committee today expressed his regret at the death of Luis de Hoyas, Sullivan county chairman of the party, and praised him as an outstanding leader.

In a telegram to The Freeman, Pfeiffer referred to de Hoyas, mayor of Monticello for 16 years, as an outstanding Republican beloved by his neighbors of various political faiths for his quality of human understanding.

The message paying tribute to the memory of de Hoyas included the designation of Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston, Republican majority leader in the Senate of the state Legislature, as a party representative at the funeral on Friday at 11 a. m. when services are to be held at St. John's Episcopal Church, Monticello.

Official Telegram

Pfeiffer's telegram follows:

"It was with deep regret that I learned of the death of Luis de Hoyas, chairman of the Sullivan County Republican committee and mayor of Monticello.

"Mr. de Hoyas was an outstanding leader of the Republican party, directing his organization with great skill and human understanding. A man of many personal attributes, he was admired and loved by his neighbors regardless of their political beliefs.

"To me, as chairman of the state committee, his warm personal friendship and invaluable assistance at all times were greatly appreciated.

"I have requested the following county chairmen of the Third Judicial District to act as official representatives of our party at the funeral services:

"State Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Ulster county.

"Congressman Dean P. Taylor of Rensselaer county.

"Walter Wertime of Albany county.

"Milton V. Saulpaugh of Columbia county.

"Milton O. Bailey of Greene county.

"Henry B. Whitbeck of Schoharie county."

of the company and announcing that the insurance was being transferred to another company. These letters, it was reported by Supervisor Relyea, had been delayed but it was said they would go out today.

The first knowledge of the liquidation of the insurance company which had written the insurance was given the fire board when the communication was received from the Workmen's Compensation Board indicating that the company was out of business and it would be necessary to secure coverage in a new company.

Members of a volunteer fire company who may be injured while in the performance of duty are eligible under the law to compensation in a similar manner as are employes of the town.

What action the town board will take was not known today. A member of the fire board said, however, his group "will meet soon" and at that time the matter of insurance "will be taken up thoroughly."

Still to be voted in the area is a proposition on a bond issue of $135,000 for enlarging the Hurley school. Proponents claim a strong sentiment in favor of the project. Voting on the school issue will be held June 6. Members of the Hurley Parents' Club, which is supporting the school district trustees, were strongly in back of the firemen on their bond issue, it was reported in The Freeman Monday.

Workers Return

Rome, May 9 (AP)—Italy's government workers went back to work today after a 24-hour "no decision" strike for higher pay. Premier Alcide de Gasperi's cabinet, which turned down the demands for pay boosts, is considering new legislation to outlaw strikes against the government. The Communist and non-Red unions which joined in the walkout promised further agitation and stoutly opposed any anti-strike laws.

Midwest 'Summer' Ends

Chicago, May 9 (AP)—The brief spell of summer-like weather in the midwest appeared nearing an end today. It remained mild in the eastern and southern states. Cool air moved southward over the northern Great Lakes and the Dakotas today. Temperatures, which were in the high 70's yesterday in the mid-continent area, were exected to level off to normal marks today. It was generally fair over most of the country. Some showers and thunderstorms were reported in the plains states and they were spreading slowly eastward.

State Republican Chairman Regrets Death of de Hoyas

Chairman William L. Pfeiffer of the New York State Republican Committee today expressed his regret at the death of Luis de Hoyas, Sullivan county chairman of the party, and praised him as an outstanding leader.

In a telegram to The Freeman, Pfeiffer referred to de Hoyas, mayor of Monticello for 16 years, as an outstanding Republican beloved by his neighbors of various political faiths for his quality of human understanding.

The message paying tribute to the memory of de Hoyas included the designation of Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston, Republican majority leader in the Senate of the state Legislature, as a party representative at the funeral on Friday at 11 a. m. when services are to be held at St. John's Episcopal Church, Monticello.

Official Telegram

Pfeiffer's telegram follows:

"It was with deep regret that I learned of the death of Luis de Hoyas, chairman of the Sullivan County Republican committee and mayor of Monticello.

"Mr. de Hoyas was an outstanding leader of the Republican party, directing his organization with great skill and human understanding. A man of many personal attributes, he was admired and loved by his neighbors regardless of their political beliefs.

"To me, as chairman of the state committee, his warm personal friendship and invaluable assistance at all times were greatly appreciated.

"I have requested the following county chairmen of the Third Judicial District to act as official representatives of our party at the funeral services:

"State Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Ulster county.

"Congressman Dean P. Taylor of Rensselaer county.

"Walter Wertime of Albany county.

"Milton V. Saulpaugh of Columbia county.

"Milton O. Bailey of Greene county.

"Henry B. Whitbeck of Schoharie county."

Eight Huks Killed

of the company and announcing that the insurance was being transferred to another company. These letters, it was reported by Supervisor Relyea, had been delayed but it was said they would go out today.

The first knowledge of the liquidation of the insurance company which had written the insurance was given the fire board when the communication was received from the Workmen's Compensation Board indicating that the company was out of business and it would be necessary to secure coverage in a new company.

Members of a volunteer fire company who may be injured while in the performance of duty are eligible under the law to compensation in a similar manner as are employes of the town.

What action the town board will take was not known today. A member of the fire board said, however, his group "will meet soon" and at that time the matter of insurance "will be taken up thoroughly."

Careful Cooling of Baking Dish

When you are using a heat-resistant oven-glass baking dish, remember never to put the hot dish in a wet sink to cool; the sudden cooling in one spot may cause breakage.

Hurley Taxpayers

eral families were evacuated by rowboat by Fire Chief Snyder and the Rev. John Dykstra, pastor of the Reformed Church. This organization, and no one can deny this, has been kept alive mainly by its own concept of service and community spirit."

School Vote to Come

Still to be voted in the area is a proposition on a bond issue of $135,000 for enlarging the Hurley school. Proponents claim a strong sentiment in favor of the project. Voting on the school issue will be held June 6. Members of the Hurley Parents' Club, which is supporting the school district trustees, were strongly in back of the firemen on their bond issue, it was reported in The Freeman Monday.

Workers Return

Rome, May 9 (AP)—Italy's government workers went back to work today after a 24-hour "no decision" strike for higher pay. Premier Alcide de Gasperi's cabinet, which turned down the demands for pay boosts, is considering new legislation to outlaw strikes against the government. The Communist and non-Red unions which joined in the walkout promised further agitation and stoutly opposed any anti-strike laws.

Midwest 'Summer' Ends

Chicago, May 9 (AP)—The brief spell of summer-like weather in the midwest appeared nearing an end today. It remained mild in the eastern and southern states. Cool air moved southward over the northern Great Lakes and the Dakotas today. Temperatures, which were in the high 70's yesterday in the mid-continent area, were exected to level off to normal marks today. It was generally fair over most of the country. Some showers and thunderstorms were reported in the plains states and they were spreading slowly eastward.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, will preside at the solemn Mass of Thanksgiving to be offered in the Chapel of St. Joseph's Seraphic Seminary, Callicoon, Wednesday, May 16, at 11 a. m., in celebration of the golden jubilee of the seminary, it was announced by the Rev. Cassian J. Kirk, O.F.M., rector.

Founded in 1901, St. Joseph's is the preparatory seminary for the priesthood of the Franciscan Fathers, Province of the Most Holy Name of Jesus of New York, one of the four Provinces of the Order of Friars Minor in the United States. Assistant priest to the cardinal at the Mass will be the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, V.F., Dean of Sullivan and Ulster counties. Chaplains will be the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph B. McIntyre, of Haddonfield, N. J., former chancellor of the Camden Diocese, N. J., and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Eugene S. Burke, V.F.P.A., S.T.D., of Hackensack, N. J., former rector of the North American College in Rome. The Very Rev. Msgr. John M. Fleming will serve as master of ceremonies at Throne. The jubilee sermon will be preached by the Rev. COMMON SENSER—Basis of his censorship of testimony in the MacArthur inquiry is common sense, says Vice Adm. Arthur C. Admiral Davis, who commanded the carrier Enterprise when it provided air cover for the Marines' invasion of Guadalcanal, says he has cut out "a great deal less than 1 per cent" of what has been brought out.

3 Health Clinics Are Scheduled by County Office

One immunization clinic is scheduled this week by the Ulster County Health Department and two child health conferences have been arranged for next week.

The immunization clinic against whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus and smallpox will be held at the department's office, 15 Main street, Saturday, May 12, from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m.

One child health clinic next week is to be held in Kingston at 25 East O'Reilly street, Tuesday, May 15, from 2 to 4 p. m.

The other conference is scheduled for the rural area of Woodstock and will be held in the health center there on Wednesday, May 16, from 2 to 4 p. m.

Relative to the immunization clinic, Dr. Robert H. Broad, commissioner of health, said that for whooping cough immunization should be started at three months of age, diphtheria and tetanus at six months and smallpox vaccination some time during the first year of life.

The clinics are arranged for those who may not otherwise secure these immunizations or for referral of patients by their physician.

Child health clinics are limited to infant and preschool children for the purpose of improving health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

These are well child clinics for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, not for the care of the sick child.

Relative to the immunization clinic, Dr. Robert H. Broad, commissioner of health, said that for whooping cough immunization should be started at three months of age, diphtheria and tetanus at six months and smallpox vaccination some time during the first year of life.

The clinics are arranged for those who may not otherwise secure these immunizations or for referral of patients by their physician.

Child health clinics are limited to infant and preschool children for the purpose of improving health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

These are well child clinics for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, not for the care of the sick child.

Nobody has ever accused my Aunt Tillie of being a good bridge player, but sometimes I think she has been underrated. The other night I saw a hand that brought my aunt very clearly to mind.

The play was a long, bitter struggle. West opened the jack of hearts, dummy played low, and East took his ace. He returned a heart, and South won with the queen.

South led a trump hopefully, but East showed out and there wts no balm in Gilead. Declarer abandoned trumps to tackle the clubs, and West ruffed on the third round. West then returned a diamond to make dummy ruff.

The play see-sawed in this way for a while, and South wound up with only nine tricks, for a loss of 500 points. Maybe he could have saved a trick by some weird maneuver, but I doubt it. The trouble lay in the bidding rather than in the play.

North and East were innocent enough, but South and West really outdid themselves in inventing horrible bids. I will leave it to the reader to choose the chief criminal.

South was justified in bidding one spade, and probably also in passing five diamonds. When North then bid five spades, South should have considered a run-out to six clubs. Obviously East had a big red two-suiter, and just as obviously North had a big black two-suiter. The spades were almost surely 4-4, and a bad trump break would be fatal.

When West doubled, South's worst fears should have been confirmed. He should have run to six clubs with a grateful bow to West for the warning.

Do you think, therefore, that South was the criminal for failing to big six clubs? If so, what do you think of West's double?

West had the enemy lashed to the mast at five spades. He had no defense against six clubs. Even my good aunt doesn't double in a spot like that.

James Mead Will Address Democrats At Annual Dinner

Thomas J. Plunket, Democratic county chairman, announced today that the annual dinner of the Ulster County Democratic Committee will be held at Williams Lake on Monday evening, May 28.

"We are very happy that Jim Mead has accepted our invitation to speak at the dinner," Plunket said. "He is well known in Kingston and will be remembered for his work in the United States Senate. As a lifelong member of the railway brotherhoods Jim has a host of friends throughout the state and the nation. In his present work as chairman of the Federal Trade Commission he is in daily contact with conditions throughout the United States. He is an entertaining speaker of proven ability and I am sure he will have something of great interest to say to all who attend the dinner."

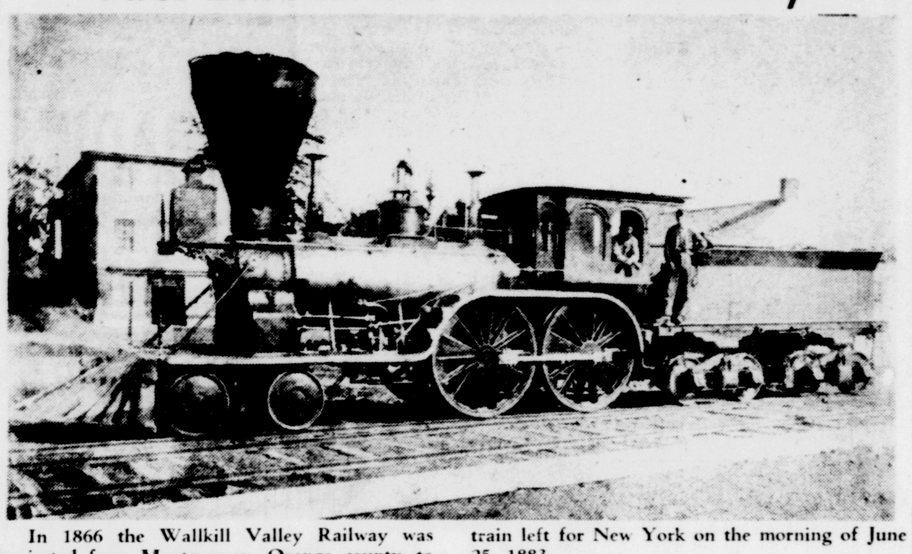
Raymond A. McAndrew is general dinner chairman with Attorney William Riseley as master of ceremonies. The following chairmen are busy organizing their committees to carry out the program: Fred Harder, arrangements; J. Robert Zelie, program; Mrs. Marie Koenig, tickets; Mrs. Marguerite Roach, women's division.

Leonard Miller, chairman of the reception committee, announced the appointment of the following members to his committee: Edward Radel, John Buboltz, Richard Smith, James Carroll, Charles Cole, Ray Lindhurst, Ralph Williams, Louis Kolano, Walter Albrecht and Vince Fallon.

Spend $41,000,000

Rome (AP)—The average United States tourist who visited Italy in Holy Year, 1950, spent $336 here exclusive of travel costs from and back to America. The Italian office of American tourists announced that 122,000 Americans came to Italy during the year, and spent $41,000,000. They were part of the 300,000 United States tourists who visited Europe in 1950, spending $230,000,000 or an average of $766 per person.

First Locomotive in Ulster County



In 1866 the Wallkill Valley Railway was projected from Montgomery, Orange county, to Kingston, first terminating at New Paltz, next at Rosendale and finally reaching Kingston. The above is a reproduction of the first locomotive in Ulster county, dated August, 1868, on the Wallkill Valley Railroad.

Down through the years there have been many changes in locomotive construction from this woodburning engine to the present-day Diesel.

At about this time Kingston was developing as a railway center. Following the Wallkill Valley came the Ulster and Delaware Railroad, which was operated from Kingston Point to Oneonta and from Phoenicia to Hunter and Kaaterskill.

The next railway line to enter Kingston was the West Shore Trunk Line. There was considerable discussion at this time as to the location of the line in the city. The first passenger train left for New York on the morning of June 25, 1883.

Today there is a major change taking place in the elimination of the Broadway crossing of the West Shore division of the New York Central. The work is expected to be completed this year.

But there was still another railway project ripening for Kingston with the opening of the Ellenville and Kingston branch of the Ontario and Western Railway. The first train left Kingston December 22, 1902.

The above photograph was loaned by David Goodyear, curator, Railway Historical Museum, R.F.D. Box 52-D, High Falls. Mr. Goodyear is interested in receiving early locomotive photographs for permanent display. In cases where the owner desires to retain original photo or a good copy thereof, he will have a copy made, but prefers, when possible, to be permitted to retain the original for his display.

New Indian Wireless

New Delhi (AP)—Indian government officials will have a direct communication link with 12 important state capitals for the first time through a new police wireless network. Aimed at preventing disruption of communications by subversive elements in time of crisis, the wireless will connect Delhi with key stations now being set up by the home ministry. Each state government has its own intra-state wireless.

Pottery Utensils

It is a good idea not to soak pottery utensils. They should be washed in hot soapsuds directly after use.

Aims for Cotton Surplus

Karachi (AP)—Pakistan plans to add 35 cotton textile mills to the 21 now operating in the country within the next four years. Announcing the goal, officials said the program would boost the number of spindles from 315,418 to 1,043,018 and make a national surplus possible.

Jacoby on Canasta

TAKE A SMART MELDING TIP

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"The upcard was a queen," writes a Chicago correspondent, "and I held two queens, three tens, and eight miscellaneous unmatched cards without any wild cards at all.

"As you see, I was in position to put down the tens and queens for an initial meld (we needed only 50 points). Is this a good play, a bad play, or something in between?"

It cannot be called a good-play in any circumstances. It would be a very bad play against skillful opponents. It might be called an in-between play if you wanted to be very charitable.

Let's see what you stand to gain from such a play. Then we can compare it with what you stand to lose.

When you take the upcard and meld six cards out of your hand, you are then left with six cards, from which you must select a discard. With five unmatched cards and no deuce you are not in good position to go out.

If your partner happens to fit your queens and tens, he may be in position to go out fairly soon. For that purpose he must have a really good hand—enough queens or tens or wild cards to complete a canasta in some way, and then a balance of meldable cards.

The odds are very much against your partner's having such a hand. But even if he has it, your meld does not particularly help him. He would be able to make his initial meld by himself and perhaps would be able to get the discard pile if you had not melded.

At most you get a queen that otherwise might have gotten away from you. Perhaps you were fated never to draw a queen, so that this was your only chance to make your meld.

This gain is so slight that you can put it in your eye quite comfortably. Now let's see what you stand to lose by melding so quickly.

When you reduce to five cards, one of the opponents will probably freeze the pack soon afterwards. Then your partner will have to fight alone against two opponents, since your hand is practically worthless. The chances are very good that the opponent will get and keep control of the discard pile. Meanwhile, you are in poor position to meld out and your partner may well be in equally poor position.

This brings us to a conclusion that good players have known about for a long time. Don't take the upcard for your initial meld; wait until the pile amounts to something worth taking. The only reasonable exception to this rule occurs when you have a really fine play for a fast out.

Ever have a Canasta player look daggers at you through an evening? Maybe you didn't know the rules, and made one mistake too many. That won't happen if you read up on the 1951 INTERNATIONAL LAWS OF CANASTA. Just send 15 cents in coin with your name and address to Oswald Jacoby, Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 438, Times Square Station, New York 18, N. Y.

CHIEF OPERATOR TELLS
HOW TO SPEED YOUR LONG DISTANCE CALLS

"YOU'LL SAVE YOURSELF TIME these busy days," says Chief Operator Mary E. Barry, "when you make your long distance calls by number.

"If you give the operator the number, she doesn't have to consult Information, and your call can go through faster. This means better service for you—and better service for everybody. I think this is extra-important right now when telephone lines are carrying so many urgent industrial and military calls."

To help you make calls by number, the New York Telephone Company offers a handy booklet for noting frequently called numbers. You can get a copy free simply by calling the Business Office.

TEN-YEAR RECORD. Today, there are four times as many miles of long distance circuits as in 1941. Then there were about 4,800,000 miles of these circuits. Today there are nearly 20,800,000 miles and more will be needed.

When America's capacity to produce depends so much on good communications, it's fortunate that the telephone system's big construction program has pushed ahead so rapidly. The Bell System is equipped and ready to handle Uncle Sam's biggest rush job.

Thomas J. Plunket, Democratic county chairman, announced today that the annual dinner of the Ulster County Democratic Committee will be held at Williams Lake on Monday evening, May 28.

"We are very happy that Jim Mead has accepted our invitation to speak at the dinner," Plunket said. "He is well known in Kingston and will be remembered for his work in the United States Senate. As a lifelong member of the railway brotherhoods Jim has a host of friends throughout the state and the nation. In his present work as chairman of the Federal Trade Commission he is in daily contact with conditions throughout the United States. He is an entertaining speaker of proven ability and I am sure he will have something of great interest to say to all who attend the dinner."

Raymond A. McAndrew is general dinner chairman with Attorney William Riseley as master of ceremonies. The following chairmen are busy organizing their committees to carry out the program: Fred Harder, arrangements; J. Robert Zelie, program; Mrs. Marie Koenig, tickets; Mrs. Marguerite Roach, women's division.

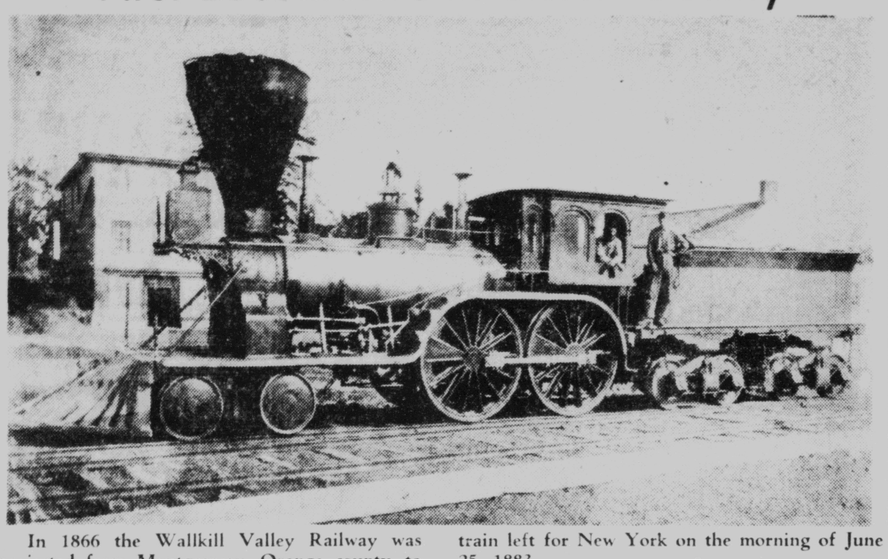
Spend $41,000,000

Rome (AP)—The average United States tourist who visited Italy in Holy Year, 1950, spent $336 here exclusive of travel costs from and back to America. The Italian office of American tourists announced that 122,000 Americans came to Italy during the year, and spent $41,000,000. They were part of the 300,000 United States tourists who visited Europe in 1950, spending $230,000,000 or an average of $766 per person.

First Locomotive in Ulster County



In 1866 the Wallkill Valley Railway was projected from Montgomery, Orange county, to Kingston, first terminating at New Paltz, next at Rosendale and finally reaching Kingston. The above is a reproduction of the first locomotive in Ulster county, dated August, 1868, on the Wallkill Valley Railroad.

Down through the years there have been many changes in locomotive construction from this woodburning engine to the present-day Diesel.

At about this time Kingston was developing as a railway center. Following the Wallkill Valley came the Ulster and Delaware Railroad, which was operated from Kingston Point to Oneonta and from Phoenicia to Hunter and Kaaterskill.

The next railway line to enter Kingston was the West Shore Trunk Line. There was considerable discussion at this time as to the location of the line in the city. The first passenger train left for New York on the morning of June 25, 1883.

Today there is a major change taking place in the elimination of the Broadway crossing of the West Shore division of the New York Central. The work is expected to be completed this year.

But there was still another railway project ripening for Kingston with the opening of the Ellenville and Kingston branch of the Ontario and Western Railway. The first train left Kingston December 22, 1902.

The above photograph was loaned by David Goodyear, curator, Railway Historical Museum, R.F.D. Box 52-D, High Falls. Mr. Goodyear is interested in receiving early locomotive photographs for permanent display. In cases where the owner desires to retain original photo or a good copy thereof, he will have a copy made, but prefers, when possible, to be permitted to retain the original for his display.

New Indian Wireless

New Delhi (AP)—Indian government officials will have a direct communication link with 12 important state capitals for the first time through a new police wireless network. Aimed at preventing disruption of communications by subversive elements in time of crisis, the wireless will connect Delhi with key stations now being set up by the home ministry. Each state government has its own intra-state wireless.

Pottery Utensils

It is a good idea not to soak pottery utensils. They should be washed in hot soapsuds directly after use.

Aims for Cotton Surplus

Karachi (AP)—Pakistan plans to add 35 cotton textile mills to the 21 now operating in the country within the next four years. Announcing the goal, officials said the program would boost the number of spindles from 315,418 to 1,043,018 and make a national surplus possible.

Jacoby on Canasta

TAKE A SMART MELDING TIP

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"The upcard was a queen," writes a Chicago correspondent, "and I held two queens, three tens, and eight miscellaneous unmatched cards without any wild cards at all.

"As you see, I was in position to put down the tens and queens for an initial meld (we needed only 50 points). Is this a good play, a bad play, or something in between?"

It cannot be called a good-play in any circumstances. It would be a very bad play against skillful opponents. It might be called an in-between play if you wanted to be very charitable.

Let's see what you stand to gain from such a play. Then we can compare it with what you stand to lose.

When you take the upcard and meld six cards out of your hand, you are then left with six cards, from which you must select a discard. With five unmatched cards and no deuce you are not in good position to go out.

If your partner happens to fit your queens and tens, he may be in position to go out fairly soon. For that purpose he must have a really good hand—enough queens or tens or wild cards to complete a canasta in some way, and then a balance of meldable cards.

The odds are very much against your partner's having such a hand. But even if he has it, your meld does not particularly help him. He would be able to make his initial meld by himself and perhaps would be able to get the discard pile if you had not melded.

At most you get a queen that otherwise might have gotten away from you. Perhaps you were fated never to draw a queen, so that this was your only chance to make your meld.

This gain is so slight that you can put it in your eye quite comfortably. Now let's see what you stand to lose by melding so quickly.

When you reduce to five cards, one of the opponents will probably freeze the pack soon afterwards. Then your partner will have to fight alone against two opponents, since your hand is practically worthless. The chances are very good that the opponent will get and keep control of the discard pile. Meanwhile, you are in poor position to meld out and your partner may well be in equally poor position.

This brings us to a conclusion that good players have known about for a long time. Don't take the upcard for your initial meld; wait until the pile amounts to something worth taking. The only reasonable exception to this rule occurs when you have a really fine play for a fast out.

Ever have a Canasta player look daggers at you through an evening? Maybe you didn't know the rules, and made one mistake too many. That won't happen if you read up on the 1951 INTERNATIONAL LAWS OF CANASTA. Just send 15 cents in coin with your name and address to Oswald Jacoby, Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 438, Times Square Station, New York 18, N. Y.

CHIEF OPERATOR TELLS

HOW TO SPEED YOUR LONG DISTANCE CALLS

"YOU'LL SAVE YOURSELF TIME these busy days," says Chief Operator Mary E. Barry, "when you make your long distance calls by number.

"If you give the operator the number, she doesn't have to consult Information, and your call can go through faster. This means better service for you—and better service for everybody. I think this is extra-important right now when telephone lines are carrying so many urgent industrial and military calls."

To help you make calls by number, the New York Telephone Company offers a handy booklet for noting frequently called numbers. You can get a copy free simply by calling the Business Office.

HAVE YOU HEARD?

WEATHER CHARTS FOR MILITARY FLYERS ARE SENT OVER LONG DISTANCE WIRES FROM WASHINGTON TO BASES ALL OVER THE NATION. THE CHARTS ARE AUTOMATICALLY REPRODUCED BY A NEW FACSIMILE PROCESS.

IN THE OLD DAYS IT WOULD HAVE TAKEN A POLE OVER 700 FEET HIGH TO CARRY ALL THE CONVERSATIONS THAT CAN GO THROUGH A MODERN 2½-INCH COAXIAL CABLE.

NEW YORK TELEPHONE COMPANY

TEN-YEAR RECORD. Today, there are four times as many miles of long distance circuits as in 1941. Then there were about 4,800,000 miles of these circuits. Today there are nearly 20,800,000 miles and more will be needed.

When America's capacity to produce depends so much on good communications, it's fortunate that the telephone system's big construction program has pushed ahead so rapidly. The Bell System is equipped and ready to handle Uncle Sam's biggest rush job.

MAKE LONG DISTANCE CALLS BY NUMBER

To help speed your long distance calls, please give the operator the out-of-town telephone number. If you'd like a handy, indexed booklet — desk or pocket size—for keeping frequently called numbers, just call the Business Office. It's free!

Same Old Uniform

Houston, May 9 (AP)—The new summer uniform for Houston's policemen had an unlooked-for effect—it was scaring the city's dogs. "They take one look at us and run off under the nearest house," a policeman said yesterday "not friendly at all." There's reason. The new uniform—dark blue cap, light blue shirt and dark blue pants—is like that worn by dog catchers here.

Mrs. Garnier Released

Los Angeles, May 9 (AP)—Convicted of manslaughter in 1949 in the death of John E. Owen, 68-year-old president of the National Apartment House Owners' Association, Mrs. Agnes Garnier has been released from prison. Mrs. Garnier, 56, has served less than two years of an indeterminate term of one to 10 years in the women's prison at Tehachapi. The state charged that Mrs. Garnier, described by her lawyer as the secretary and "unwed wife" of Owen, killed him during a quarrel over his friendship with actress Irene Rich. The shooting occured at Owen's Riverside county ranch. Mrs. Garnier claimed that Owen was drunk and threatened to kill her, and that he was shot as they wrestled for possession of a pistol.

Police were notified at 8:28 a. m., by Albert Vedder, 177 Murray street, who yesterday reported a car stolen from in front of his house, that it had been found on Smith avenue near the Athletic Field behind a railroad shack. Officers William Hanley and Henry Ronnenberg took from it a set of license plates which were reported taken from another car parked on Murray street and turned them in at headquarters. Yesterday's report said the stolen car was owned by Horton Pearson of West Camp, who had asked Vedder to sell it for him.

To Demand More Taxes

New York, May 9 (AP)—New York city officials are mobilizing again to demand a bigger share of state taxes. The years-long contest between the city and upstate smaller communities has come to a head once more. Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri and Joseph T. Sharkey, acting president of the City Council, said yesterday that a strong fight will be made in the next legislative session for more state aid for New York city. The perennial complaint of New York and other big cities is that they get back too little in state funds to compensate for their contributions.

Main Lines Tangled

New Brunswick, N. J., May 9 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad operated on a system of detours and shuttles today while wrecking crews toiled to clear its main line of the twisted, tangled remains of 47 derailed freight cars. A spokesman said it would be noon before service could be restored on even one of its four clogged main-line tracks which link Philadelphia and the west to New York. Normal operations on the giant railroad halted abruptly yesterday when 47 produce-carrying cars of a 143-car freight leaped off the tracks in a jumbled mass of splintered wood and tangled track. No one was injured.

Allied Planes . . .

compared to the opposition it met underscored reports of Chinese dissatisfaction over inadequate Russian aid.

A front line dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Jim Becker, delayed by censors, said absence of Russian-made armor bogged down the recent Red offensive after it had broken through UN lines. Becker quoted a high ranking allied officer as saying:

"We have learned from many sources that the Chinese did not follow up their breakthrough because they had planned on using planes and tanks and the Russians did not deliver them.

"We hear that many top Chinese generals are disgusted by this Russian failure to deliver."

Similar reports of Chinese anger with Russians came previously from AP Correspondent John Randolph.

Forced Chinese to Drive

Becker said the UN push northward forced the Chinese to launch their offensive prematurely, with infantry alone.

South Korean troops expanded their three bridgeheads inside Red Korea. All were on the eastern front.

The third crossing of the 38th Parallel was made Tuesday southeast of the Red supply base of Inje. An earlier wedge was driven south of Inje. Other South Koreans were north of the border on the eastern seaboard.

South Koreans on the western sector on both sides of the Han river also advanced north of Seoul.

These were the only solid fronts. The Eighth Army estimated Red losses for the day at 915 killed or wounded.

In addition to the limited advances, a general headquarters communique said ground activity was limited to patrols "probing deep into enemy territory against sporadic resistance."

Remembrance of Scott Van Demark, Sr., who passed away one year ago today, May 9, 1950.

The month of May is here again,
To me the saddest of all the year.
The blow was hard
The shock severe,
To part with one I loved so dear.

The defendant, scheduled to go on trial next Monday, will be committed to Matteawan State Hospital, Judge Schwartz said.

Von Wolfersdorf and Joseph L. Paonessa, 44, of Wappingers Falls, were accused of killing Robert E. Leonard and hiding his nude body in an abandoned shack at Milan.

Paonessa has been declared sane and will go on trial Monday.

Same Old Uniform

Houston, May 9 (AP)—The new summer uniform for Houston's policemen had an unlooked-for effect—it was scaring the city's dogs. "They take one look at us and run off under the nearest house," a policeman said yesterday "not friendly at all." There's reason. The new uniform—dark blue cap, light blue shirt and dark blue pants—is like that worn by dog catchers here.

Mrs. Garnier Released

Los Angeles, May 9 (AP)—Convicted of manslaughter in 1949 in the death of John E. Owen, 68-year-old president of the National Apartment House Owners' Association, Mrs. Agnes Garnier has been released from prison. Mrs. Garnier, 56, has served less than two years of an indeterminate term of one to 10 years in the women's prison at Tehachapi. The state charged that Mrs. Garnier, described by her lawyer as the secretary and "unwed wife" of Owen, killed him during a quarrel over his friendship with actress Irene Rich. The shooting occured at Owen's Riverside county ranch. Mrs. Garnier claimed that Owen was drunk and threatened to kill her, and that he was shot as they wrestled for possession of a pistol.

Car Is Located

Police were notified at 8:28 a. m., by Albert Vedder, 177 Murray street, who yesterday reported a car stolen from in front of his house, that it had been found on Smith avenue near the Athletic Field behind a railroad shack. Officers William Hanley and Henry Ronnenberg took from it a set of license plates which were reported taken from another car parked on Murray street and turned them in at headquarters. Yesterday's report said the stolen car was owned by Horton Pearson of West Camp, who had asked Vedder to sell it for him.

To Demand More Taxes

New York, May 9 (AP)—New York city officials are mobilizing again to demand a bigger share of state taxes. The years-long contest between the city and upstate smaller communities has come to a head once more. Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri and Joseph T. Sharkey, acting president of the City Council, said yesterday that a strong fight will be made in the next legislative session for more state aid for New York city. The perennial complaint of New York and other big cities is that they get back too little in state funds to compensate for their contributions.

Main Lines Tangled

New Brunswick, N. J., May 9 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad operated on a system of detours and shuttles today while wrecking crews toiled to clear its main line of the twisted, tangled remains of 47 derailed freight cars. A spokesman said it would be noon before service could be restored on even one of its four clogged main-line tracks which link Philadelphia and the west to New York. Normal operations on the giant railroad halted abruptly yesterday when 47 produce-carrying cars of a 143-car freight leaped off the tracks in a jumbled mass of splintered wood and tangled track. No one was injured.

Allied Planes . . .

compared to the opposition it met underscored reports of Chinese dissatisfaction over inadequate Russian aid.

A front line dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Jim Becker, delayed by censors, said absence of Russian-made armor bogged down the recent Red offensive after it had broken through UN lines. Becker quoted a high ranking allied officer as saying:

"We have learned from many sources that the Chinese did not follow up their breakthrough because they had planned on using planes and tanks and the Russians did not deliver them.

"We hear that many top Chinese generals are disgusted by this Russian failure to deliver."

Similar reports of Chinese anger with Russians came previously from AP Correspondent John Randolph.

Forced Chinese to Drive

Becker said the UN push northward forced the Chinese to launch their offensive prematurely, with infantry alone.

South Korean troops expanded their three bridgeheads inside Red Korea. All were on the eastern front.

The third crossing of the 38th Parallel was made Tuesday southeast of the Red supply base of Inje. An earlier wedge was driven south of Inje. Other South Koreans were north of the border on the eastern seaboard.

South Koreans on the western sector on both sides of the Han river also advanced north of Seoul.

These were the only solid fronts. The Eighth Army estimated Red losses for the day at 915 killed or wounded.

In addition to the limited advances, a general headquarters communique said ground activity was limited to patrols "probing deep into enemy territory against sporadic resistance."

A farm survey has shown that the tail of a healthy pig may curl either to the right or to the left.

More than 2,500 are expected to attend the dinner at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel. J. Russel Sprague, of Nassau county, a member of the Republican National Committee, will be temporary toastmaster.

Two Are Killed

Washington, May 9 (AP)—A navy transport plane with seven aboard crashed near the Patuxent river air station in southern Maryland today, killing the pilot and co-pilot. The navy announced two of the five passengers aboard suffered burns and other injuries. The navy did not identify any of the passengers and said the names of the dead pilot and co-pilot will be withheld until their families are notified.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, May 8—John Cole, Jr., was numbered among the uptown Kingston businessmen calling in the hub of the reservoir country Monday.

Amelia Morris, one of the older residents of Ashokan, is convalescing at the Millonig nursing home in Kingston.

The WSG of the West Hurley Methodist Church will meet Wednesday night with Mrs. Aubrey Berry on the Zena road.

Topic selected for this year's essay contest sponsored by Olive Legion Post, 1627, is "Why Kefauver Committee Says 'Wake Up.'" The contest chairman is Edward G. West of Allaben. All pupils in Grades 5-8 of the Onteora central school district are eligible to enter the competition.

Sunday afternoon travel on the Ashokan reservoir boulevards and this section of the Onteora Trail was noticeably lighter than on several previous week-ends according to one local observer, who opined that "most folks were down county looking over the fruit blossom show."

The Queen Esthers of Glenford Methodist Church will meet Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Arthur Gray.

Fredenholm & Juralek, local contractors, are making extensive improvements to the Benoit residence, or one time Cyrus Cudney farmhouse on the Ashokan mountain road.

Echo of waterworks days: May 7, 1910—Current issue of annual Coutant & Davis real estate catalogue, as printed at Freeman plant, includes 72 descriptions accompanied by half-tone engravings. Coutant in his introduction writes: "Since our earliest boyhood these great, beautiful cathedrals of the earth (Catskill), with their gates of rock, pavements of clouds, choir of streams and stones and altars of snow have been our boon companion (he developed Moonhaw, near Shokan). We have been with them in their different moods and are familiar with their streams, Indian paths, gorges, glens and ravines of rare beauty."

Ernest Gardner, hustling young electric company field man, plans to move with his wife and small daughter from the west side of the reservoir to their own place between Mt. Tremper and Ideal Park. Thus, along about July 1, Ernie will return to the section where he was born and brought up.

Worden L. Castle, who according to last Wednesday's Freeman left a net estate of $383,945, was well known to older residents of Shokan. Worden as a boy lived on the Brown's Station road and attended the Shokan school. He was a near neighbor of Margaret Rainey, our oldest citizen.

Treason Trial Terminated

Crowing Brings Fine

Ontario, Calif. (AP)—The cock that crowed in the morn proved the undoing of Iselabo B. Julaton, 42, of Salinas, Calif. He stopped at a gas station at 5:45 a. m., and a couple of passing policemen were attracted by the lusty crowing of a rooster. The officers said they found six game cocks in the back of Julaton's truck. He was fined $25 for illegal possession of fighting birds and the fowl were confiscated.

Lucky Misfit

Rangoon (AP)—Relatives preparing to bury Ma Khin Nyunt, 18, of Mandalay, found the grave too small to admit her burnished teak coffin. The superstitious, regarding this as an omen, demanded the coffin be opened. Removing the lid, they saw Khin Nyunt's eyelids fluttering. The girl was taken to a nearby Buddhist monastery where she is reportedly progressing, a Mandalay report said.

The difference goes more than Skin-Deep

NOBODY wonders what you're driving when you roll by in this one.

In the 1951 line-up, its brand-new front-end styling stands out with a beauty all its own.

You're the proud owner of a Buick—and the whole world knows it.

But you—at the wheel—enjoy a long list of differences that go far deeper than looks.

The ride is different—level and true. You sit the road with special assurance—because Buick's torque-tube drive keeps rear wheels firmly aligned—soft coil springs on all four wheels soak up the bumps and bobbles—honest weight keeps you on a steady keel.

The power is different—eager and sure. Buick's high-compression Fireball engine does wonders with fuel—and no matter what you demand in emergency, there's horsepower to spare.

Handling is different—this car seems to steer itself on straightaway or curve—and swings lightly into parking spots inches shorter than you'd think you need.

Capping it all, there's the silken versatility of Dynaflow Drive,* that takes all the tenseness out of driving—responds to your slightest wish with a surging swoop of power.

No doubt about it, what you get in a Buick is far more than just a new car—it's a whole new experience in getting pleasurably from here to there.

So why not explore this difference? Come, take a Buick over and find out how very much satisfaction smart money can buy.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, May 8—John Cole, Jr., was numbered among the uptown Kingston businessmen calling in the hub of the reservoir country Monday.

Amelia Morris, one of the older residents of Ashokan, is convalescing at the Millonig nursing home in Kingston.

The WSG of the West Hurley Methodist Church will meet Wednesday night with Mrs. Aubrey Berry on the Zena road.

Topic selected for this year's essay contest sponsored by Olive Legion Post, 1627, is "Why Kefauver Committee Says 'Wake Up!'" The contest chairman is Edward G. West of Allaben. All pupils in Grades 5-8 of the Onteora central school district are eligible to enter the competition.

Sunday afternoon travel on the Ashokan reservoir boulevards and this section of the Onteora Trail was noticeably lighter than on several previous week-ends according to one local observer, who opined that "most folks were down county looking over the fruit blossom show."

The Queen Esthers of Glenford Methodist Church will meet Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Arthur Gray.

Fredenholm & Juralek, local contractors, are making extensive improvements to the Benoit residence, or one time Cyrus Cudney farmhouse on the Ashokan mountain road.

Echo of waterworks days: May 7, 1910—Current issue of annual Coutant & Davis real estate catalogue, as printed at Freeman plant, includes 72 descriptions accompanied by half-tone engravings. Coutant in his introduction writes: "Since our earliest boyhood these great, beautiful cathedrals of the earth (Catskill), with their gates of rock, pavements of clouds, choir of streams and stones and altars of snow have been our boon companion (he developed Moonhaw, near Shokan). We have been with them in their different moods and are familiar with their streams, Indian paths, gorges, glens and ravines of rare beauty."

Ernest Gardner, hustling young electric company field man, plans to move with his wife and small daughter from the west side of the reservoir to their own place between Mt. Tremper and Ideal Park. Thus, along about July 1, Ernie will return to the section where he was born and brought up.

Worden L. Castle, who according to last Wednesday's Freeman left a net estate of $383,945, was well known to older residents of Shokan. Worden as a boy lived on the Brown's Station road and attended the Shokan school. He was a near neighbor of Margaret Rainey, our oldest citizen.

Mabie Is Elected Legion Head of Esopus Post 1298

ROGER MABIE

At the annual election of officers of Esopus Post, 1298, American Legion, Tuesday night in Port Ewen, Roger Mabie, a lifelong resident of the village was chosen as commander.

The new commander is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mabie and served in the navy during World War 2, receiving his discharge as a lieutenant commander. He is a charter member of Esopus Post.

After termination of active service he studied two years at Harvard and received his masters degree. At present he is employed by Island Dock, Inc.

The three vice commanders elected to serve with Mabie are Howard Galbraith, Alfred Schoonmaker and William Ferguson.

Panel of Officers

Other officers are:

Edward McBroom, finance officer; the Rev. Francis Newell, C. Ss. R., chaplain; Chester Barth, adjutant; Knute Beichert, historian; Manifred Kastner, sergeant at arms; Harry Van Ormer and Clifford Davis, Jr., retiring commander, members of the executive committee; delegates to the county Legion—Joseph Stadt, Roger Mabie and Chester Barth; alternates—Edward Norton, Edgar Maurer and William Ferguson.

Due to the interest Mabie has shown in Esopus post since its inception, his year as commander is expected to be one of the most outstanding in the annals of the organization.

Has Full Support

Members pledged their support to him as he took the gavel and expressed the feeling that activities would continue in the manner which has made Esopus Post one of the outstanding Legion units in the county of Ulster.

Commander Mabie is a graduate of Syracuse University, class of 1940. He enlisted in the navy in 1941 and was commissioned an ensign in 1942. His advancement brought him the rank of lieutenant commander, a commission he still holds as a member of the Naval Reserve.

Commanded 3 Vessels

During the war he served as captain on PC611, PCE874 and in June 1945 took command of the USS Gilmer (APD).

He was in the coastal convoy early in the war and later saw service under Admiral Kinkade in the Seventh Fleet in the Pacific. He was discharged in January of 1946.

Dancer Also Tries Suicide by Pills

Beverly Hills, Calif., May 9 (AP)—A dancer who accompanied actress Mary Astor's husband on a tour of nightclubs Monday night when Miss Astor took an overdose of sleeping pills is herself in a hospital this morning. Police said the dancer also had taken an overdose of a sleeping potion.

The woman was identified by police detective Sgt. Joe Gebhardt as Joan Blair Casparis, 33. The detective said her escort Monday night was broker Thomas Wheelock, husband of Miss Astor.

An attending physician reported today that Miss Casparis is in a serious condition but expected to recover. She was still unconscious several hours after being taken to California Lutheran Hospital in Los Angeles.

Miss Astor Out of Danger

Miss Astor, who took sleeping pills after a period of despondency, was reported out of danger after treatment.

Police said Miss Casparis was found unconscious last night after Wheelock had tried unsuccessfully to rouse her by telephone in her room at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

Gebhardt said Wheelock told him Miss Casparis was a friend of 20 years' standing. He quoted Wheelock: "This situation has nothing to do with Miss Astor's action."

Police characterized Miss Casparis' action as attempted suicide. They said they found a bottle half filled with blue capsules. There were no notes.

Sgt. D. H. Barnes said Wheelock told him that he, Miss Casparis and a man named Chuck Eden had been making a round of bars, and that he took Eden and Miss Casparis to the hotel. He said Miss Casparis did not appear to be despondent.

North Hollywood, May 9 (AP)—Leo Diegel, who won many of golf's top honors, died at his home last night after a lingering illness at the age of 52. London, May 9 (AP)—Pravda pinned a few editorial laurels on the Russian people today for what it described as the single-handed feat of winning World War 2. Strenuous Efforts Made

Washington, May 9 (AP) — The Communists are making strenuous efforts to supply their fighting forces in Korea, the Defense Department says. A spokesman told reporters yesterday that 16,000 enemy vehicles of all descriptions were spotted in North Korea during the week ending Sunday and that "the bulk of them were moving south." The spokesman defined the term vehicle as meaning "anything that moves on wheels, except bicycles." The total included numbers of animal drawn carts, wheelbarrows and vehicles drawn or pushed by humans.

FAMILY TABLE MANNERS

A reader brings up this question about the training of her children: "Should they be taught to wait until everyone at table has been served and their mother begins eating? Their father thinks it is bad table manners for them to begin eating right away. I told him when we're out ourselves we're not expected to wait for everyone to be served before we start. He thinks this is different."

If they are very young children who eat slowly, they are as a rule served first, and encouraged to begin eating at once so as not to keep everyone waiting at the end of the course. Older children, however, should never be served first. The general rule is that no one is expected to wait longer than for one or two others to be served, before beginning to eat.

Pink Bridal Veil

Dear Mrs. Post: I had intended to wear a pink bridal type dress and a pink veil to match it. This is my second marriage and I'm still in my twenties. Now someone informs me that a veil, even one in color, is not proper for a widow.

Answer: As long as it is definite pink (or any other color) it is quite suitable. A white (or off-white) veil is by tradition correct for none but a maiden bride.

Towle Trays

Dear Mrs. Post: You have mentioned towle trays as an attractive tea tray. I don't know what kind you mean and wonder where I could buy one.

Answer: Towle is a tin tray that is decorated and then lacquered. Many of them are very beautiful. These last can be very expensive. Quite lovely ones of medium price can, however, be found in many department stores.

Mother's Wedding Ring

Dear Mrs. Post: I expect to use my mother's wedding ring when I get married. Shall I have the initials in the band removed or merely add ours to them.

Answer: This is entirely a question of your own and your fiance's feelings.

What is the order for the wedding procession, and who stands in the receiving line? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-2, "Formal Wedding Procedure," explains in detail the ceremony, music, receiving line, etc. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her c/o Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. At CAR Supper

Approximately 40 members of Christopher Tappen Society, CAR, and their mothers, gathered at Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, chapter house last night, for the group's sixth birthday. CAR Celebrates Sixth Birthday, Elects Officers

Over 40 members and their mothers of Christopher Tappen Society, Children of the American Revolution, attended a sixth birthday supper last night at Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, chapter house, with Mrs. William H. Pouch of New York, past president general of the DAR, and past national president of the CAR, as guest of honor.

Addressing the group, Mrs. Pouch spoke of the organization's work, and reminded members of their "priceless heritage," as well as their responsibilities as future citizens.

During the evening Richard Torrens, past junior president, who attended the national CAR conference April 21 and 22 in Washington, D. C., told the group of his experiences there. Mrs. William MacGregor Mills, past senior president, also attended the conference.

Prior to the election and installation of officers, Elaine Barton played two piano solos.

The following officers were installed by Mrs. Adam H. Porter, regent, Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR: Jean Milliken, president; Nancy Torrens, vice-president; Joan Wilson, chaplain; Barbara Davenport, treasurer; Elaine Barton, secretary; Barbara Smith, historian; Sue Ann Milliken, registrar.

Newly installed officers were presented by Mrs. Pouch with a CAR New Testament and a flag.

Israel Celebration To Feature Chorus From Temple Beth-El

Temple Beth-El Chorus, which was formed in an attempt to include a larger group of persons in the Poughkeepsie temple's musical activities, will appear tomorrow at Temple Emanuel's anniversary celebration commemorating the inception of the State of Israel in 1948. Also appearing will be Julius Schulman, violinist, and Ben Basenko, an "outstanding interpreter" of Yiddish humor and folklore.

The chorus' beginnings were quite spontaneous. A group of people, under the leadership of Lilli Zimet, at the outset met weekly to learn their first songs. Most of the participants were lay persons, with little or no musical background. There were only two requirements for joining the group: love for singing, coupled with the ability to carry a tune.

Thanks to sincere effort, and whole-hearted enthusiasm, the chorus has reached a remarkable level of achievement. It has participated in a broadcast of Jewish Music Month and in the Jewish Music Month programs for the past two years. Its largest undertaking was the Spring Festival of Jewish Music in May, 1950, when, among other selections the chorus sang the musical score for Habikurim, a modern Israeli pageant. Accompanist for the chorus is Judith Simon.

Spokesmen for Thursday night's celebration have stressed that those arriving at the temple early will receive Israeli souvenirs. The public is invited, and during the evening refreshments will be served.

Hurley Nursing Committee Meets

During the May meeting of the Public Health Nursing Committee of Hurley, held Monday at the home of Mrs. William MacNamee, West Hurley, arrangements were completed for the county picnic which will be held at the Hurley home of Mrs. Thomas Flynn, president of the Hurley group.

The group also arranged to hold its meetings the first Tuesday of each month, and announced that in connection with civilian defense, classes will be formed under Miss Ann Cassidy's direction, giving instruction in self health, and neighbor health.

The dental health clinic, which was discussed in previous meetings, will be held in West Hurley June 4 and 5, and in Hurley July 16 and 17. The clinics will give children, between the ages of three and five, fluorine treatments.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

Hull Is 'Better'

Bethesda, Md., May 9 (AP)—Ailing Cordell Hull, former secretary of state, was "better" early today, a spokesman at the Naval Medical Center here said. Physicians said he was perfectly "lucid and as clear in the head as anybody could be." But he remains on the critical list.

He thinks this is different."

If they are very young children who eat slowly, they are as a rule served first, and encouraged to begin eating at once so as not to keep everyone waiting at the end of the course. Older children, however, should never be served first. The general rule is that no one is expected to wait longer than for one or two others to be served, before beginning to eat.

Pink Bridal Veil

Dear Mrs. Post: I had intended to wear a pink bridal type dress and a pink veil to match it. This is my second marriage and I'm still in my twenties. Now someone informs me that a veil, even one in color, is not proper for a widow.

Answer: As long as it is definite pink (or any other color) it is quite suitable. A white (or off-white) veil is by tradition correct for none but a maiden bride.

Towle Trays

Dear Mrs. Post: You have mentioned towle trays as an attractive tea tray. I don't know what kind you mean and wonder where I could buy one.

Answer: Towle is a tin tray that is decorated and then lacquered. Many of them are very beautiful. These last can be very expensive. Quite lovely ones of medium price can, however, be found in many department stores.

Mother's Wedding Ring

Dear Mrs. Post: I expect to use my mother's wedding ring when I get married. Shall I have the initials in the band removed or merely add ours to them.

Answer: This is entirely a question of your own and your fiance's feelings.

What is the order for the wedding procession, and who stands in the receiving line? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-2, "Formal Wedding Procedure," explains in detail the ceremony, music, receiving line, etc. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her c/o Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

At CAR Supper

CAR Celebrates Sixth Birthday, Elects Officers

Over 40 members and their mothers of Christopher Tappen Society, Children of the American Revolution, attended a sixth birthday supper last night at Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, chapter house, with Mrs. William H. Pouch of New York, past president general of the DAR, and past national president of the CAR, as guest of honor.

Addressing the group, Mrs. Pouch spoke of the organization's work, and reminded members of their "priceless heritage," as well as their responsibilities as future citizens.

During the evening Richard Torrens, past junior president, who attended the national CAR conference April 21 and 22 in Washington, D. C., told the group of his experiences there. Mrs. William MacGregor Mills, past senior president, also attended the conference.

Prior to the election and installation of officers, Elaine Barton played two piano solos.

The following officers were installed by Mrs. Adam H. Porter, regent, Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR; Jean Milliken, president; Nancy Torrens, vice-president; Joan Wilson, chaplain; Barbara Davenport, treasurer; Elaine Barton, secretary; Barbara Smith, historian; Sue Ann Milliken, registrar.

Newly installed officers were presented by Mrs. Pouch with a CAR New Testament and a flag.

Israel Celebration To Feature Chorus From Temple Beth-El

Temple Beth-El Chorus, which was formed in an attempt to include a larger group of persons in the Poughkeepsie temple's musical activities, will appear tomorrow at Temple Emanuel's anniversary celebration commemorating the inception of the State of Israel in 1948. Also appearing will be Julius Schulman, violinist, and Ben Basenko, an "outstanding interpreter" of Yiddish humor and folklore.

The chorus' beginnings were quite spontaneous. A group of people, under the leadership of Lilli Zimet, at the outset met weekly to learn their first songs. Most of the participants were lay persons, with little or no musical background. There were only two requirements for joining the group: love for singing, coupled with the ability to carry a tune.

Thanks to sincere effort, and whole-hearted enthusiasm, the chorus has reached a remarkable level of achievement. It has participated in a broadcast of Jewish Music Month and in the Jewish Music Month programs for the past two years. Its largest undertaking was the Spring Festival of Jewish Music in May, 1950, when, among other selections the chorus sang the musical score for Habikurim, a modern Israeli pageant. Accompanist for the chorus is Judith Simon.

Spokesmen for Thursday night's celebration have stressed that those arriving at the temple early will receive Israeli souvenirs. The public is invited, and during the evening refreshments will be served.

Hurley Nursing Committee Meets

During the May meeting of the Public Health Nursing Committee of Hurley, held Monday at the home of Mrs. William MacNamee, West Hurley, arrangements were completed for the county picnic which will be held at the Hurley home of Mrs. Thomas Flynn, president of the Hurley group.

The group also arranged to hold its meetings the first Tuesday of each month, and announced that in connection with civilian defense, classes will be formed under Miss Ann Cassidy's direction, giving instruction in self health, and neighbor health.

The dental health clinic, which was discussed in previous meetings, will be held in West Hurley June 4 and 5, and in Hurley July 16 and 17. The clinics will give children, between the ages of three and five, fluorine treatments.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

Hull Is 'Better'

Bethesda, Md., May 9 (AP)—Ailing Cordell Hull, former secretary of state, was "better" early today, a spokesman at the Naval Medical Center here said. Physicians said he was perfectly "lucid and as clear in the head as anybody could be." But he remains on the critical list.

Sunday Ceremony at St. Mary's Church Sets Scene for Gafney-Burns Nuptials

St. Mary's Church set the scene Sunday, April 29, for the marriage of Miss Eileen Patricia Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Burns, Jr., to Aloysius R. Gafney, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Eugene Decker, 182 Hasbrouck avenue. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. John A. Flaherty of that parish.

During the ceremony traditional organ music was played by Theodore Riccobono, while Miss Barbara Bruck, soloist, sang Ave Maria. Bridal decorations at the church included white snapdragons and gladioli.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a satin and lace gown cut with a sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves and a lace edged train. The fitted bodice was of imported Chantilly lace over Skinner satin. Her fingertip illusion veil was caught to a tiara of seed pearls and rhinestones, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white iris and sweet peas.

Miss Eileen Davis of 47 Franklin street, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Davis was dressed in a gown with a pink Chantilly lace bodice with a pleated edged portrait collar, and a bouffant skirt of nylon marquisette over taffeta. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of pink roses and blue iris.

The bride's other attendants were Miss Margaret Howard of 202 Smith avenue, dressed in blue with a pink rose and blue iris bouquet; Miss Margaret Hinsdale of 66 Stephan street, dressed in an orchid gown, with a yellow rose and iris bouquet; and Mrs. Ronald Burns of 33 Teller street, sister-in-law of the bride, who was dressed in a green gown and carried a yellow rose and iris bouquet. The attendants' gowns were identical to that of the maid of honor.

Robert P. Burns of 322 Foxhall avenue, brother of the bride, was best man. George Bruck of 180 Hasbrouck avenue, Alfred Radel of 176 Hasbrouck avenue, and Ronald Burns of 33 Teller street, brother of the bride, ushered.

A reception for 100 guests was held at Rose Marie Cabins. Mr. and Mrs. Gafney then left for their wedding trip to the southern states. For traveling the bride wore a brown suit, with brown and yellow accessories. The couple will make their home in New London, Conn.

The bride was graduated from St. Ursula's Academy, and is employed with the New York Telephone Co.

The groom is a graduate of Andrew Jackson High School, Queens, and attended Adelphi College, Garden City. During World War 2 he served for three years with the United States Coast Guard, re-enlisting in 1948. He is now an instructor at the Electronic Technician School, USCG, Groton, Conn.

Meanwhile cast changes since the original presentation of My Fine Ladies, which is under the direction of John Mayo, have scheduled the following actors for performance Tuesday: Gretchen Osterhoudt, Macaroon; Ernest Ward, LaPox; Marian Powers, Madame Cliche; Jules Viglielmo, Dubonnet; Tom Cerwonka, Gavotte; John Mayo, Briskit; Wanda Lewis, Blanche; Betti Williams, Belle; George Sagar, Captain Poop; John Carro, first chairman; Frank Mack, second chairman; George Ruffing, Mascara.

Rome Colonels Defeat Colonials, 5-4, to Sweep Two-Game Series

Great Relief Pitching Chore Balks Locals

Alvarado's 'Skull' Doesn't Help Either

The Colonials and the Colonels might still be playing at municipal stadium, if pinch runner Chico Alvarado hadn't been guilty of an elementary error of judgment in the ninth inning last night.

Chico represented the tying run on third base. There was only one out and the Colonials trailed Buck Etchison's Rome club, 5 to 4.

Second baseman Joe Stelmach lofted a fly to fairly average centerfield depth, but the confused young Puerto Rican failed to tag up and was three strides off the bag when centerfielder, Ed Polubiatka, made the catch. By the time Chico returned to the bag it was too late to make a break for the plate. Joel Kern followed with a smash to relief pitcher Sal Arduini and that ended the ball game.

The final score: Rome 5, Kingston 4. It was the Camellites sixth loss in seven starts.

Kingston opens a two-day stay in Amsterdam tonight, with portly Walter Sullivan due to pitch. They return to municipal stadium for Friday and Saturday contests with the Oneonta Red Sox.

Great Relief Job

Alvarado's "skull" almost overshadowed a sterling relief performance by Sal Arduini, Rome right hander, who relieved starter Bob Linskey with a man on third, two runs in and nobody out in the eighth.

Linskey had permitted only three hits and a couple of runs in seven innings when the Colonials came to life. Joel Kirn sliced a double inside third base, Joe Niro walked and Lou Kramberg tripled to right field scoring Kern and Niro. That made it a 5-4 count, with Kramberg resting on third. Manager Etchison yanked Linskey and inserted Arduini, who retired Al Greene on a bounder to third. Carl Harris tapped to the box and Jack Ormiston completed the frustrating performance with a loft to centerfield.

Arduini was in trouble again in the ninth when Jack Allen doubled to left field and moved to third when Manager Hank Camelli bounced to second as a pinch hitter for pitcher Charlie Ayers. Then came the Alvarado skull.

Young Charlie Ayers turned in his second straight workmanlike pitching chore for the Colonials, but with the same lack of success. Three of the nine Rome safeties were triples that figured in the scoring.

Niro Triples

Kingston took a 1-0 lead in the first on Joe Stelmach's walk, a force play and Joe Niro's triple along the left field foul line. Linskey silenced them until the sixth when Joel Kern walked, advanced to third on Niro's single and scored on Linskey's wild pitch.

Back-to-back singles by Ed Polubiatka and Paul Higgins and Leon Molokie's long fly to left tied the score 1-1 in the third. Paul Ramsey and Polubiatka reached Ayers for triples in the fifth, Polubiatka scoring when Lou Kramberg bungled the outfield relay on his three bagger.

Ray Luckett's triple and Al Dinacci's one baser sent Rome ahead, 4-1, in their half of the sixth. What proved to be the eventual winning marker resulted from Carl Harris' bobble of Linskey's grounder in the seventh. The Rome hurler advanced on Polubiatka's sacrifice and scored on Molokie's single to left.

COLONIAL CAPERS: Ed Polubiatka, who played with the Poughkeepsie Chiefs, was on base four times with a single, triple, walk and fielder's choice, drove in two runs and scored a pair. Not bad for a leadoff. Joe Stelmach got his daily walk in the first. Joe Niro had a triple and single. Joel Kern was outstanding at third base. He made two great stops and throws in the ninth. Polubiatka robbed Niro of a possible extra base hit with a shoestring catch in the third. Jack Ormiston made a circus catch on Ray Luckett's smash to deep left in the fourth. Luckett was again a victim in the eighth when Al Greene made a nice running catch of his smash to deep center. A boy scout corps furnished an impromptu serenade from Forsyth Park in the third inning. Ten-game admission books at reduced rates on sale at the concession stand and ticket offices. Walter Sullivan and Jack Ormiston probable starters against the Amsterdam powerhouse.

Swarthout's Homer Wins For Chez Emile, 6-5

THREE NEW COLONIAL PLAYERS

These three young players figure to play an important part in Kingston Colonial destinies in the Canadian-American League. Left to right: Bob Wenning, pitcher; shortstop Carl Harris and Joel Kern, third baseman. Wenning and Kern were optioned to the Colonials by the Albany Senators of the Eastern League. Harris was signed as a free agent after having served a short while in the New York Yankee farm system. (Freeman Photo)

Sixth-Inning Blast Overcomes Joneses In City League

Carlino, Vertetis Also Pound Homers

Somebody must have slipped the rabbit ball into the City League yesterday.

Three home runs boomed over the outfield barriers during the course of Chez Emile's 6 to 5 victory over Jones Dairy and it was a four-ply wallop by Warren "Bud" Swarthout, veteran Chez Emile portsider, that decided the issue.

Swarthout's homer came in the top of the sixth after Emile Jordan's tossers had rallied to tie the count at 5-5 with a four-run rally in the fourth.

The burly southpaw walloped a Tommy Fisher serve over the right field wall. On the mound, Swarthout was adequate with an eight-hit job, walking four and striking out seven.

Carlino Starts Deluge

Tom Carlino, the stocky Dairy shortstop, had launched the open season on home runs with a two-run blast over the left field fence during a four-run uprising by the Joneses in the first inning. The sock traveled at least 350 feet and was the most impressive of the three stroked during the game.

Johnny Vertetis, twice a strikeout victim, atoned for his previous batting deficiencies by blasting a three-run homer in the fifth inning. That tied the score at 5-5 and set the stage for Swarthout's winning smash in the sixth.

Swarthout turned back the Joneses in order in the bottom of the sixth.

Fisher Victim

The Chezzies collected only five hits off veteran Tommy Fisher, who walked four and fanned six, but bunched them with commendable economy.

The Dairymen had Swarthout staggering in the first inning. Johnny Berardi led off with a single, Johnny Schatzel walked. A passed ball moved the runners up a notch and R. Graves, a newcomer to City League circles, singled scoring two runs after Tommy Maines had flied to deep center. Carlino's homer accounted for another pair of markers. A single by Francello and two walks loaded the sacks but Swarthout got the next two batsmen on a strikeout and pop fly.

Singles by Tommy Fisher and Johnny Schatzel and Johnny Berardi's double sent Jones Dairy ahead, 5-1, in the fourth.

A couple of errors by Charlie Francello and Johnny Schatzel behind a walk to Sonny Barnes accounted for the first Chez Emile tally in the third. Then came the fifth inning explosion. With one out Barnes singled and Lindhurst drew a walk. Carlino made a fine running catch on Scheffel's blooper but threw wildly past first permitting Barnes to score. Vertetis then powered a shot over the left field fence.

MESSINGER'S MEMOS: Swarthout fanned the side in the third. Johnny Berardi and Johnny Schatzel had two hits apiece. Bob Slover's fine play earned him a steady job with the Chezzies. After moving from first base to right field in the second inning, he made a great diving catch on Maines in the same inning. Emile Jordan left before Jones Dairy was retired in the first inning. The final score must have come as a surprise to him. Joe Benjamin and Charlie Lay are vieing for the Methuselah crown in the league, but Joe is shaded by a couple of seasons. Jackie Watzka, the fireballer, makes his seasonal debut with Ferraro's Bowlodrome this evening against Old Capital Motors.

The Romans started the custom of forcibly feeding geese to enlarge the livers. A goose that is fed by force every few hours soon develops a liver of several pounds' weight.

Swarthout's Homer Wins For Chez Emile, 6-5

THREE NEW COLONIAL PLAYERS

These three young players figure to play an important part in Kingston Colonial destinies in the Canadian-American League. Left to right: Bob Wenning, pitcher; shortstop Carl Harris and Joel Kern, third baseman. Wenning and Kern were optioned to the Colonials by the Albany Senators of the Eastern League. Harris was signed as a free agent after having served a short while in the New York Yankee farm system. (Freeman Photo)

Sixth-Inning Blast Overcomes Joneses In City League

Carlino, Vertetis Also Pound Homers

Somebody must have slipped the rabbit ball into the City League yesterday.

Three home runs boomed over the outfield barriers during the course of Chez Emile's 6 to 5 victory over Jones Dairy and it was a four-ply wallop by Warren "Bud" Swarthout, veteran Chez Emile portsider, that decided the issue.

Swarthout's homer came in the top of the sixth after Emile Jordan's tossers had rallied to tie the count at 5-5 with a four-run rally in the fourth.

The burly southpaw walloped a Tommy Fisher serve over the right field wall. On the mound, Swarthout was adequate with an eight-hit job, walking four and striking out seven.

Carlino Starts Deluge

Tom Carlino, the stocky Dairy shortstop, had launched the open season on home runs with a two-run blast over the left field fence during a four-run uprising by the Joneses in the first inning. The sock traveled at least 350 feet and was the most impressive of the three stroked during the game.

Johnny Vertetis, twice a strikeout victim, atoned for his previous batting deficiencies by blasting a three-run homer in the fifth inning. That tied the score at 5-5 and set the stage for Swarthout's winning smash in the sixth.

Swarthout turned back the Joneses in order in the bottom of the sixth.

Fisher Victim

The Chezzies collected only five hits off veteran Tommy Fisher, who walked four and fanned six, but bunched them with commendable economy.

The Dairymen had Swarthout staggering in the first inning. Johnny Berardi led off with a single, Johnny Schatzel walked. A passed ball moved the runners up a notch and R. Graves, a newcomer to City League circles, singled scoring two runs after Tommy Maines had flied to deep center. Carlino's homer accounted for another pair of markers. A single by Francello and two walks loaded the sacks but Swarthout got the next two batsmen on a strikeout and pop fly.

Singles by Tommy Fisher and Johnny Schatzel and Johnny Berardi's double sent Jones Dairy ahead, 5-1, in the fourth.

A couple of errors by Charlie Francello and Johnny Schatzel behind a walk to Sonny Barnes accounted for the first Chez Emile tally in the third. Then came the fifth inning explosion. With one out Barnes singled and Lindhurst drew a walk. Carlino made a fine running catch on Scheffel's blooper but threw wildly past first permitting Barnes to score. Vertetis then powered a shot over the left field fence.

MESSINGER'S MEMOS: Swarthout fanned the side in the third. Johnny Berardi and Johnny Schatzel had two hits apiece. Bob Slover's fine play earned him a steady job with the Chezzies. After moving from first base to right field in the second inning, he made a great diving catch on Maines in the same inning. Emile Jordan left before Jones Dairy was retired in the first inning. The final score must have come as a surprise to him. Joe Benjamin and Charlie Lay are vieing for the Methuselah crown in the league, but Joe is shaded by a couple of seasons. Jackie Watzka, the fireballer, makes his seasonal debut with Ferraro's Bowlodrome this evening against Old Capital Motors.

Urzetta Likes Golf But Not in Woolens

Birkdale, England, May 9 (AP)—Sam Urzetta, the United States Amateur golf champion, has adapted himself to England like a duck to a pond of icy water.

He's kept a sharp eye out for some long woolen underwear and said he hopes it will help him get 30 degrees warmer, but golf is golf and he's playing quite well, thank you.

Rickey Still a Madman

Branch Rickey's manipulations with the Pittsburgh Pirates makes that old "who's on first, what's on second" gag as outmoded as a day game in St. Louis.

Pittsburgh fans were prepared for some changes with the announcement last winter that Rickey had been lured from Brooklyn to take over the reins of the Buccaneers.

But who would have been so clairvoyant as to foresee that Ralph Kiner, the home run hitting outfielder, would be playing first base this year? Or that Pete Reiser, who did some infielding and outfielding in his day, would be classed as a catcher? Or that they'd live to see their club experiment with a lefthanded receiver?

There is a method to Rickey's madness as there is to everything this celebrated brainbuster does. The craggy, bushy-browed Mahatma's daily shifts have been more confusing than amusing to the opposition.

Ask those pennant hungry Dodgers or the contending Boston Braves. Or the defending Philadelphia Phillies. All experienced a taste of the Rickey switch and look what happened. The Pirates swept both games at Ebbets Field. They split a pair in Boston but had the satisfaction of slapping a no-hitter on the hard-hitting Braves. Last night, they drubbed the Phils under the Philadelphia lights, 9-3.

It took the Phils eight innings before they finally scored off Mel Queen. It probably took them that long to get over their surprise at seeing the Pirates take the field with centerfielder Wally Westlake at third, third baseman Pete Castiglione at short and shortstop George Strickland at second. Kiner, of course, was at first. That made a completely revamped infield.

Braves Take Lead

The Braves moved into first place with a 2-1 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds under the Boston lights. A home run by Sid Gordon in the last half of the ninth ended a pitching duel between winner Max Surkont and Herman Wehmeier.

The Giants finally moved out of the cellar to make room for Cincinnati by defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-2, at night in New York. Larry Jansen pitched a four-hitter for his first victory since opening day.

Hank Sauer's home run with a mate aboard in the first inning gave the Chicago Cubs a 2-1 triumph over the Dodgers. Bob Schultz, rookie southpaw, spaced nine hits for his third victory.

A single by Vic Wertz in the 11th inning drove in Jerry Priddy with the run that gave the Tigers a 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees in a day affair at Detroit.

Ray Herbert, in relief, gained credit for his fourth victory.

Bobby Shantz pitched the Philadelphia Athletics to a 9-4 win over the White Sox in Chicago.

Cleveland, Washington, the Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns were not scheduled.

Back Injury Shelves Feller

Cleveland, May 9 (AP)—Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indians mound star, was nursing burns on his legs and lower torso today—along with a previous back injury.

He suffered the first and second degree burns yesterday as he prepared to take a whirlpool bath for the back injury. He lost control of the hose and the near boiling water squirted on his body.

Dr. Don Kelly, team physician, said Bob might be out of action as long as a week, but Feller predicted he would be ready to hurl over the week-end.

Softball Practice

Bence's Tavern softball squad will practice this evening at Block Park. All members of last year's team are invited to attend.

Baum, Sparando Shine in A.B.C.

St. Paul, May 9 (AP)—The 1951 ABC continues to follow the pattern as one of the scoringest pin toppling events in recent years.

In yesterday's shooting, a pair of Moline, Ill., keglers shot into second place in the doubles; a New Yorker hit 685 in the singles, and a Philadelphia booster took over fifth place in that division.

Gerry Anderson, 31-year-old advertising salesman and son of the man who won the ABC singles in 1938 with a 746 series, paired with Penny Spaulding for a 1,320 doubles count. Anderson hit games of 236, 248 and 201 for a 685 series. Spaulding, a 26-year-old bartender, dumped the pins for a 635 series on games of 215, 188 and 232.

Sid Baum of New York got a 279 start in his singles and followed with a 221 for an even 500 for his first two games but he dropped to 185 in his third try and failed to place among the leaders. An 8-10 split in the eighth frame of the second game and an error in the third frame of the final game kept him out of the 700 circle.

Veteran Tony Sparando, also of New York, finished with 1,884 in the all-events to push his 10-year ABC average to 200 plus 44 pins. Sparando hit 624 in the five-man event, 599 in the doubles and 661 in the singles.

Wiltwyck Golfers Defeat Red Hook In First Inter-Club Match, 17 to 7

Bailey Fires 69 For Medal Honors

Wiltwyck Golf Club opened its inter-club season on Sunday, with a decisive 17 to 7 victory over Red Hook on the Dutchess county links.

The Red Hook team, admittedly weakened by the absence of several key players will seek revenge on June 3 at Wiltwyck.

J. Watson Bailey, the little man with the magic putter, fired a neat 69 to remind his teammates that the Red Hook course is still his meat.

Always rugged on the Red Hook layout, Bailey expected a bad day after triple-bogey seven on the par-four first hole. But he rallied with a string of one-putt greens and scoring four birdies in the next six holes. He was two under par for the last 17 holes.

Bailey defeated Fred Kunze, 4 and 3, and teamed with Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr. in a best-ball win. Holcomb polished off Dr. Lou Dillman, 5 and 4.

Joe Sondey, the Red Hook professional, rallied on the 17th and 18th holes to overcome Bill Van Aken, local city champion, who led all the way. Leon Randall played No. 2 and shot a 71 to win his match from H. Law Weatherwax, one-time Yale golf star. Van Aken and Randall won the best-ball event.

Other results:

Maurice Davenport and Dr. George Rifenbary defeated Norton and W. Bean, 3-0.

Bob Daley, and Bob Cullum W, defeated Halen and Synder, 3-0.

Clarence Raichle and Joe Kwasney, W, defeated D. Buckley and W. White, 3-0.

Bob Powell and Ed Tongue, W, defeated G. Meade and Stockenberg, 3-0.

Bob Laphan and O. Ham, Red Hook, defeated Reuben Leventhal and Al Heisman, W, 3-0.

Haskins and Lloyd, Red Hook, defeated Ben Cohen and Larry Jacobs, W. 3-0.

The Wiltwyck medal scores were: Bailey 69, Randall 71, Van Aken, Cullum, Raichle, 75; Kwasney 76; Dr. Holcomb 77; Daley 78; Davenport 79; Rifenbary 81; Powell 84; Tongue 85; Cohen 86; Leventhal 87; Jacobes 90; Heisman 98.

Boxer Suspended For Hitting Manager

Nibbing, Minn., May 9 (AP)—Glen Flanagan of St. Paul drew an on-the-spot 60-day ring suspension in Minnesota last night when he socked his opponent's manager after winning a 10-round boxing decision over Pat Iacobucci of Cincinnati.

Flanagan, weighing 128 pounds, had just been announced as a 98-95 point winner over the 127-pound Ohioan when he strode across the ring and without warning struck out at Ed Johnson the loser's pilot. There was a flurry of punches before officials and spectators parted the pair.

Dr. Cyril Smith, Duluth, member of the State Boxing Commission, ordered the suspension from his seat at the ringside. Neither fighter was downed nor hurt during the main affray.

After the flareup, Flanagan told newsmen he struck out at Johnson because "he had been riding me all through the fight."

Rickey Still a Madman

Branch Rickey's manipulations with the Pittsburgh Pirates makes that old "who's on first, what's on second" gag as outmoded as a day game in St. Louis.

Pittsburgh fans were prepared for some changes with the announcement last winter that Rickey had been lured from Brooklyn to take over the reins of the Buccaneers.

But who would have been so clairvoyant as to foresee that Ralph Kiner, the home run hitting outfielder, would be playing first base this year? Or that Pete Reiser, who did some infielding and outfielding in his day, would be classed as a catcher? Or that they'd live to see their club experiment with a lefthanded receiver?

There is a method to Rickey's madness as there is to everything this celebrated brainbuster does. The craggy, bushy-browed Mahatma's daily shifts have been more confusing than amusing to the opposition.

Ask those pennant hungry Dodgers or the contending Boston Braves. Or the defending Philadelphia Phillies. All experienced a taste of the Rickey switch and look what happened. The Pirates swept both games at Ebbets Field. They split a pair in Boston but had the satisfaction of slapping a no-hitter on the hard-hitting Braves. Last night, they drubbed the Phils under the Philadelphia lights, 9-3.

It took the Phils eight innings before they finally scored off Mel Queen. It probably took them that long to get over their surprise at seeing the Pirates take the field with centerfielder Wally Westlake at third, third baseman Pete Castiglione at short and shortstop George Strickland at second. Kiner, of course, was at first. That made a completely revamped infield.

Braves Take Lead

The Braves moved into first place with a 2-1 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds under the Boston lights. A home run by Sid Gordon in the last half of the ninth ended a pitching duel between winner Max Surkont and Herman Wehmeier.

The Giants finally moved out of the cellar to make room for Cincinnati by defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-2, at night in New York. Larry Jansen pitched a four-hitter for his first victory since opening day.

Hank Sauer's home run with a mate aboard in the first inning gave the Chicago Cubs a 2-1 triumph over the Dodgers. Bob Schultz, rookie southpaw, spaced nine hits for his third victory.

A single by Vic Wertz in the 11th inning drove in Jerry Priddy with the run that gave the Tigers a 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees in a day affair at Detroit.

Ray Herbert, in relief, gained credit for his fourth victory.

Bobby Shantz pitched the Philadelphia Athletics to a 9-4 win over the White Sox in Chicago.

Cleveland, Washington, the Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns were not scheduled.

Back Injury Shelves Feller

Cleveland, May 9 (AP)—Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indians mound star, was nursing burns on his legs and lower torso today—along with a previous back injury.

He suffered the first and second degree burns yesterday as he prepared to take a whirlpool bath for the back injury. He lost control of the hose and the near boiling water squirted on his body.

Dr. Don Kelly, team physician, said Bob might be out of action as long as a week, but Feller predicted he would be ready to hurl over the week-end.

Baum, Sparando Shine in A.B.C.

St. Paul, May 9 (AP)—The 1951 ABC continues to follow the pattern as one of the scoringest pin toppling events in recent years.

In yesterday's shooting, a pair of Moline, Ill., keglers shot into second place in the doubles; a New Yorker hit 685 in the singles, and a Philadelphia booster took over fifth place in that division.

Gerry Anderson, 31-year-old advertising salesman and son of the man who won the ABC singles in 1938 with a 746 series, paired with Penny Spaulding for a 1,320 doubles count. Anderson hit games of 236, 248 and 201 for a 685 series. Spaulding, a 26-year-old bartender, dumped the pins for a 635 series on games of 215, 188 and 232.

Sid Baum of New York got a 279 start in his singles and followed with a 221 for an even 500 for his first two games but he dropped to 185 in his third try and failed to place among the leaders. An 8-10 split in the eighth frame of the second game and an error in the third frame of the final game kept him out of the 700 circle.

Veteran Tony Sparando, also of New York, finished with 1,884 in the all-events to push his 10-year ABC average to 200 plus 44 pins. Sparando hit 624 in the five-man event, 599 in the doubles and 661 in the singles.

EMPLOYMENT

HELP WANTED—MALE

FIELD REPRESENTATIVE

We are a large, conservative Wall Street investment house of high repute and are organizing upstate New York for our business. We require a representative in Kingston and surrounding country who should be a person of high integrity and good educational background enjoying an excellent reputation in the community.

We believe that our business offers one of the greatest opportunities for a very interesting, permanent and well paid career. We are one of the pioneers of planned investment programs dealing with the small investor who can put $10 per month away as well as with the wealthy person who can invest large sums. We use mutual investment companies as our investment medium and a large bank as custodian for our clients' holdings.

Public acceptance has been growing rapidly during the last few years. Leaders in the financial field admit that the mutual fund business has entered an era of very large expansion. As a consequence, weekly commissions of the serious worker should far exceed the income of the average salaried man.

Arrangements for the necessary training will be made by our Albany Manager, Mr. Frans Keuker, First Investors Corporation, 50 State St., Albany 7, N. Y., to whom applications with full details and references should be sent. Applications from retired business men for full or part time occupation will be considered.

Incendiary Fire

possible at this time to give even a rough estimate of the damage, but indicated it would amount to thousands of dollars.

The fire came 12 days before the 34th anniversary of a more damaging blaze on May 21, 1917, when the school was almost destroyed by a fire also believed of incendiary origin. Damage then was estimated at about $30,000.

Six Lines Used

A still alarm and two bell alarms from box 5411 today called out men and equipment from the three paid departments and four volunteer companies. Two gravity lines and four engine lines of hose were used in quenching the fire, which Chief Murphy said was raging through the whole front of the building when firemen arrived.

Superintendent Laidlaw said the school will remain closed until Monday by which time repair work is expected to be sufficiently advanced to allow the pupils to finish the term in the other rooms of the building.

The room of the second grade on the main floor was the most seriously damaged by the blaze. Its entire interior was gutted and the fire apparently had separate starting places in two closets on opposite sides of the corridor near the front of the building.

Also damaged on the main floor was the kindergarten room, across from the second grade room, and back of that was a closet containing stored school paper, where the chief believes, another fire might have been started.

Less Seriously Damaged

The second-floor fifth grade room above the second grade room was less seriously damaged, but the heat of the fire loosened paint and plaster on the ceiling above the corridor and on other walls and ceilings. Lights and plaster were loosened in the nurses' room which is midway in the building from the other damaged front rooms.

Chief Murphy said the intense heat had taken out the large front window of the second grade room before firemen arrived and the steel bottoms of the desks in that room which accommodated 30 pupils were so badly melted that none could be found. The records of Mrs. Joseph Disch, the teacher, were destroyed, but Principal Ambrose J. Boyd said no records were damaged in his office.

Miss Helen Lowe is the teacher of the kindergarten room and Miss Victoria Maroon is teacher of the fifth grade room, the other classrooms which were most seriously affected by the fire. The damage there, however, was slight compared to that of the second grade room. Window casings were damaged in the upstairs, fifth grade room.

Mrs. Carter Sends Call

The first telephone alarm at 2:37 a. m., came from Mrs. Anna O. Carter, 14 Wynkoop Place. Deputy Fire Chief George Matthews, who rode the engine from central station to the fire, pulled the first bell alarm at 2:39 a. m., and the second alarm followed immediately. The chief's car was sent to pick up Chief Murphy as the deputy went with the firemen.

Men and equipment from Central and Cornell stations and Wicks Engine and Truck Company answered the telephone alarm. Wiltwyck responded to the second as volunteer companies were called to cover: Cordts went to central station, Union to Cornell and Excelsior to Wiltwyck station.

Recall Alarm

The recall alarm came about an hour and 35 minutes after the first alarm but Engine No. 1, of Central station was called back at 7:14 a. m., to check another slight outbreak of the fire in rubbish in the basement under the second grade room. Damage to the basement which also houses the school cafeteria, was confined largely to the space between timbers of the floor above.

The blaze gave firemen a stiff battle and the large aerial ladders were used. Chief said the men did excellent work and all escaped without even a minor injury. The fire was at its worst in the east front section of the school. Flames were licking the outside walls from front windows when firemen arrived.

Insurance Quoted

Superintendent Laidlaw said the building is insured for $172,000 and its contents for $8,700. A lot of the work in reconditioning the school, he said will be repair work, but the second grade room will be about entirely reconstructed.

360 Are Enrolled

The school has an enrollment of 360 pupils from kindergarten through sixth grade. Besides the 16 class rooms, it houses the principal's office, cafeteria and a few smaller rooms.

A Freeman account of the fire on May 21, 1917, said there were 519 pupils at that time. The article was headed, "School No. 5 Badly Damaged by Incendiary Fire," which almost destroyed the older part of the building, but caused less damage to a "new four-room addition." It was insured then for $31,000 and damage was estimated at $30,000. The older section had eight rooms, and eight grades were then taught at the school.

Firemen were called by two alarms, the first at 9:20 p. m., for that fire, and the blaze then extended to the bell cupola at the top of the structure and the bell crashed down to the floor. Rodney Chipp was then fire chief.

Clock Stops 2:33 A. M.

Fire Chief Murphy noted that a clock in the school had stopped at 2:33 a. m. during this morning's fire. The telephone alarm came four minutes later.

Reports from various sources indicated that a series of mischievous and malicious incidents had occurred in the neighborhood during the past several weeks before the fire today. These included a report that the hall of the Church of the Comforter had been broken into recently, and that children were believed responsible for two comparatively recent incipient fires in sheds.

Call at 2:39 A. M.

Police headquarters were notified of the fire at 2:39 a. m. Officers Walter Van Steenburgh and Louis Sapp, Jr., were dispatched there immediately and following the second bell alarm Officers Henry Ronnenberg and William Hanley were sent there. Police Chief Raymond Van Buren was also notified and went to the scene. Later today Chief Van Buren and Detective Clarence Brophy, made an inspection at the school. Detective Brophy recently conducted investigations which led to the solution of two small downtown fires. They were traced to two groups of boys.

Investigators Arrives

Fire Chief Murphy said that Stuerwald, the investigator for the National Board of Fire Underwriters arrived here and began his investigation late this morning and that another investigator, Edward Curran, of Albany, representing the Mutual Insurance Company was expected to arrive from Albany later to participate in the probe.

Incendiary Fire

possible at this time to give even a rough estimate of the damage, but indicated it would amount to thousands of dollars.

The fire came 12 days before the 34th anniversary of a more damaging blaze on May 21, 1917, when the school was almost destroyed by a fire also believed of incendiary origin. Damage then was estimated at about $30,000.

Six Lines Used

A still alarm and two bell alarms from box 5411 today called out men and equipment from the three paid departments and four volunteer companies. Two gravity lines and four engine lines of hose were used in quenching the fire, which Chief Murphy said was raging through the whole front of the building when firemen arrived.

Superintendent Laidlaw said the school will remain closed until Monday by which time repair work is expected to be sufficiently advanced to allow the pupils to finish the term in the other rooms of the building.

The room of the second grade on the main floor was the most seriously damaged by the blaze. Its entire interior was gutted and the fire apparently had separate starting places in two closets on opposite sides of the corridor near the front of the building.

Also damaged on the main floor was the kindergarten room, across from the second grade room, and back of that was a closet containing stored school paper, where the chief believes, another fire might have been started.

Less Seriously Damaged

The second-floor fifth grade room above the second grade room was less seriously damaged, but the heat of the fire loosened paint and plaster on the ceiling above the corridor and on other walls and ceilings. Lights and plaster were loosened in the nurses' room which is midway in the building from the other damaged front rooms.

Chief Murphy said the intense heat had taken out the large front window of the second grade room before firemen arrived and the steel bottoms of the desks in that room which accommodated 30 pupils were so badly melted that none could be found. The records of Mrs. Joseph Disch, the teacher, were destroyed, but Principal Ambrose J. Boyd said no records were damaged in his office.

Miss Helen Lowe is the teacher of the kindergarten room and Miss Victoria Maroon is teacher of the fifth grade room, the other classrooms which were most seriously affected by the fire. The damage there, however, was slight compared to that of the second grade room. Window casings were damaged in the upstairs, fifth grade room.

Mrs. Carter Sends Call

The first telephone alarm at 2:37 a. m., came from Mrs. Anna O. Carter, 14 Wynkoop Place. Deputy Fire Chief George Matthews, who rode the engine from central station to the fire, pulled the first bell alarm at 2:39 a. m., and the second alarm followed immediately. The chief's car was sent to pick up Chief Murphy as the deputy went with the firemen.

Men and equipment from Central and Cornell stations and Wicks Engine and Truck Company answered the telephone alarm. Wiltwyck responded to the second as volunteer companies were called to cover: Cordts went to central station, Union to Cornell and Excelsior to Wiltwyck station.

Recall Alarm

The recall alarm came about an hour and 35 minutes after the first alarm but Engine No. 1, of Central station was called back at 7:14 a. m., to check another slight outbreak of the fire in rubbish in the basement under the second grade room. Damage to the basement which also houses the school cafeteria, was confined largely to the space between timbers of the floor above.

The blaze gave firemen a stiff battle and the large aerial ladders were used. Chief said the men did excellent work and all escaped without even a minor injury. The fire was at its worst in the east front section of the school. Flames were licking the outside walls from front windows when firemen arrived.

Insurance Quoted

Superintendent Laidlaw said the building is insured for $172,000 and its contents for $8,700. A lot of the work in reconditioning the school, he said will be repair work, but the second grade room will be about entirely reconstructed.

360 Are Enrolled

The school has an enrollment of 360 pupils from kindergarten through sixth grade. Besides the 16 class rooms, it houses the principal's office, cafeteria and a few smaller rooms.

A Freeman account of the fire on May 21, 1917, said there were 519 pupils at that time. The article was headed, "School No. 5 Badly Damaged by Incendiary Fire," which almost destroyed the older part of the building, but caused less damage to a "new four-room addition." It was insured then for $31,000 and damage was estimated at $30,000. The older section had eight rooms, and eight grades were then taught at the school.

Firemen were called by two alarms, the first at 9:20 p. m., for that fire, and the blaze then extended to the bell cupola at the top of the structure and the bell crashed down to the floor. Rodney Chipp was then fire chief.

Clock Stops 2:33 A. M.

Fire Chief Murphy noted that a clock in the school had stopped at 2:33 a. m. during this morning's fire. The telephone alarm came four minutes later.

Reports from various sources indicated that a series of mischievous and malicious incidents had occurred in the neighborhood during the past several weeks before the fire today. These included a report that the hall of the Church of the Comforter had been broken into recently, and that children were believed responsible for two comparatively recent incipient fires in sheds.

Call at 2:39 A. M.

Police headquarters were notified of the fire at 2:39 a. m. Officers Walter Van Steenburgh and Louis Sapp, Jr., were dispatched there immediately and following the second bell alarm Officers Henry Ronnenberg and William Hanley were sent there. Police Chief Raymond Van Buren was also notified and went to the scene. Later today Chief Van Buren and Detective Clarence Brophy, made an inspection at the school. Detective Brophy recently conducted investigations which led to the solution of two small downtown fires. They were traced to two groups of boys.

Investigators Arrives

Fire Chief Murphy said that Stuerwald, the investigator for the National Board of Fire Underwriters arrived here and began his investigation late this morning and that another investigator, Edward Curran, of Albany, representing the Mutual Insurance Company was expected to arrive from Albany later to participate in the probe.

'Boss Mercury' Jailed

Hong Kong, May 9 (AP)—Chinese Communists today jailed a man they said had killed more than 600 persons and "ate the hearts of his victims." He was identified as Hwa Shou-fung, alias "Boss Mercury." The Communist dispatch said he served as an occupation official under the Japanese in World War 2. Hwa was one of a large group of "counter-revolutionaries" arrested in Nanking.

Jury Selection Resumes

Ballston Spa, N. Y., May 9 (AP)—Selection of a prejudice-proof grand jury was resumed today for the probe ordered by Governor Dewey into any racketeer-political tieups on gambling in Saratoga county. A second panel of 36 veniremen reported to Justice Leo J. Hagerty. Only six grand jurors were seated from the original panel of 36 called April 30 and questioned by Hagerty and Special Prosecutor John M. Minton.

Will Hold Convention

Washington, May 9 (AP)—The American Watch Makers Union will hold a convention here May 14-16 and its president, Walter W. Cenerazzo, said today speakers will include Secretary of Labor Tobin, Senator Lodge (R-Mass.) and Senator Taft (R-Ohio). length than he did yesterday his part in unsuccessful attempts in 1945 and 1946 to end the Chinese Civil War. The indications were Marshall might be on the stand for several days more.

The defense secretary was expected to be called upon by Democrats to tell the committee how many troops Russia has available near Korea, if the Kremlin decides to strike there.

Marshall Testifies

Marshall testified more than three hours yesterday, his second appearance before the groups. The hearing was closed to the public but a transcript made public after censors' deletions showed he said:

1. A negotiated peace may be obtainable in Korea if American arms continue to chew up Red China's armies, with relatively low U. S. losses.

2. There is a "very real possibility" the Soviets will decide to intervene and thus touch off World War III.

3. There is the possibility that Red China itself will decide to enlarge the war, throwing in a formidable air force built up with Russian help.

4. There is "no choice" in Europe, where Marshall said the free world either must risk all-out war or "surrender," but there is a choice of limiting the measures and reducing the risk of all-out war in Asia.

5. "Accentuation" by MacArthur of U. S. casualties in Korea, combined with his contention that the war there is headed for a "bloody stalemate," threatens the morale of the troops.

MacArthur has urged a blockade against Red China, bombing of Manchurian bases and use of Chinese Nationalist troops. He has predicted such action probably would not bring Russia into the war and would produce victory.

Marshall said this course involves a greater risk of World War 3 than the administration's program, although he said that if there were an absolute certainty that Russia wouldn't move, he would support all of the MacArthur proposals. But he said there never could be such certainty.

Sees No 'Profit'

However, he said bombing Manchuria as MacArthur advocated probably would "not be profitable." He added China is a big country and "you don't destroy much when you hit at it."

He said use of the Chinese Nationalist forces from Formosa "would have prejudiced the campaign because of the small result we would get from incursions of that force on the mainland and the hazards we would take in reducing the effective force of those troops that are equipped" to defend Formosa from attack.

The defense secretary said the naval blockade of China suggested by MacArthur will become "almost academic" if Great Britain and other nations go along on an international embargo against China.

No Japanese Fight

"clearer answer" from Marshall as to how the administration expects to end the Korean war.

Marshall testified yesterday that he expects eventual victory will be won by inflicting "terrific casualties" on the Chinese Communists, destroying their trained armies and breaking their morale.

The defense secretary indicated he thought this would bring the Chinese Reds to the point where they would be willing to negotiate a satisfactory settlement.

Rhee Goes to Front

Somewhere in Korea, May 9 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee flew to the front today to check on the collapse of a South Korean division April 22 in the Communist offensive. "Some of the men responsible will be punished," Rhee said. He was accompanied by U. S. Ambassador John J. Muccio and Lt. Gen. John B. Coulter, deputy chief of the U. S. Eighth Army.

Dies of Injuries

Danbury, Conn., May 9 (AP)—Mrs. Gerald Mulkins, 21, an expectant mother of Patterson, N. Y., who was struck by a truck Sunday, died yesterday in Danbury Hospital. The truck driver, Kenneth McCord, of Pawling, N. Y., is being held in lieu of $1,000 bail on charges of criminal negligence, leaving the scene of an accident and driving without a license. Police said he struck Mrs. Mulkins while backing out of a parking lot.

Early last fall we ran an ad in this newspaper stating we could not accept any more heating or oil burner contracts until further notice.
By refusing additional business we were able to complete all of our installations on schedule and everybody was happy—especially us.
We are now in a position to accept installations for June, July and Aug. and will be glad to quote on all types of oil burning equipment.
If you have a heating problem, want to modernize your present system, or install new equipment, let us call and give you an estimate — No obligation.
